COULDN'T BE MONEY TRUST

Morgan Declares Control of Money Would Be Utter Impossibility.

GREAT FINANCIER ON WITNESS STAND

Likes a Little Competition But He Likes Combination Better.

Washington, Dec. 19.—"There could not be a money trust. All the banks and all the money in Christendom could not control money. The question of control is personal as to money and credits," declared J. Pierpont Morgan today to the house money trust investigating committee.

The big financier was led up to his answer by the questioning of Samuel Untermeyer, counsel for the committee, who asked Mr. Morgan if he did not feel his vast power.

Mr. Morgan answered that he did not admit he had vast power and did not feel it.

Once when the lawyer and the witness got into a discussion of competition and combination Mr. Morgan said:

"I'd rather have combination than competition. I like a little competition, but I like combination better. Control is the important thing; without it you can't do a thing, but no one man could monopolize money. One man might get control of railroads or merchandize, but never money and credit."

The financier's lawyers, R. V. Lindabury, Joseph H. Choate, DelanceyNicol and John C. Spooner, held a whispered conference as Mr. Morgan took the stand and Mr. Untermeyer, counsel for the committee, began the examination.

"Can't you give the committee a statement of the deposits of your banking firm in New York up to Nov. 1?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

Mr. Morgan approximated it at about $100,000,000.

WILSON TO SLEEP AGAIN IN HOUSE WHERE HE WAS BORN.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 19.—When Woodrow Wilson wakes up on the morning of Dec. 28, he expects to find himself in the same house in Staunton, Va., in which he was born, just 56 years ago that day. The president-elect said today he would leave here on Dec. 27 and reach his birth place that night, so as to sleep in the Presbyterian parsonage, where he was born. He will spend the next day, his birthday, in Staunton, where a jubilee celebration has been arranged in his honor.

AGAIN PROBE KNABE DEATH

Marion County Grand Jury Resumes Work on Mysterious Case.

DETECTIVE TURNS UP NEW EVIDENCE

Kahn is Released Under Bond at South Bend—Indiana News.

Indianapolis, Dec. 19.—The mysterious death of Dr. Helen Knabe, who was found dead in her apartment here last year, again was investigated today by the Marion county grand jury.

It is said additional evidence was discovered by a private detective and that an indictment may be expected soon.

BEN KAHN GIVES BOND.

One Member of Alleged Arson Trust Freed at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 19.—Ben Kahn who is accused with Ben Franklin in the arson trust case here was released from jail today on a bond of $7,500 furnished by his father-in-law, Simon Cohen and the latter's brother Charles Cohen, both of this city. Kahn, who has been in a cell for a week, was overjoyed at his release and walked out of jail arm in arm with his wife, his face wreathed in smiles.

Franklin remains in jail in default of $10,000 bond, the amount required of Judge Funk in court yesterday.

SEEKING THE PROFESSOR.

Smooth Clairvoyant Did a Lively Business at Seymour.

Seymour, Ind., Dec. 19.—The police of this city are trying to find "Professor" Keller who left Seymour after obtaining between $700 and $1,000 from citizens. He came here about a week ago and advertised himself as a clairvoyant. After a short reading he informed his clients they could find a hidden treasure or lost estate, but they must deposit some money with him so it could be "magnetized." He instructed them to return later. When they came back he had disappeared.

FREE HAIRCUTS FOR ORPHANS.

Lafayette Barbers Start New Style of Christmas Giving.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 19.—Eight Lafayette barbers gave the boys at St. Joseph's Orphans' home a Christmas gift in the form of free hair cutting and in doing so they established a record in this city. Working simultaneously the eight barbers, in just one hour and forty-two minutes, cut the hair of 102 boys.

Hereafter the hair cutting at Christmas time will be an annual affair at the asylum.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 19.—Adam Boehler, who killed his wife last night, held a squad of fifty policemen and detectives at bay for eight hours today before he was shot and killed by officers. ## RESUME MARCH IN NEW RUBBER BOOTS

Suffragette Pilgrims Face Remaining Long Tramp Dauntlessly.

FOUR NOW IN RANKS

Peekskill, N. Y., Dec. 19.—Steady downpour greeted the suffragette pilgrims when they prepared today to resume their march to Albany with a message to Governor Sulzer. They had before them a sixteen mile walk to Fishkill, the longest day's tramp of the journey thus far.

Mrs. Olive Schultze, the official scout of the expedition, who motored to Albany and back recently, reported officially today that she had found "much deep mud." Nothing daunted, however, "General" Rosalie G. Jones, with her two surviving followers, and Mrs. Jessie Stubbs, who rejoined the ranks last night, announced that it was "Albany if it takes all winter." Just before the start Mrs. Stubbs issued a defi to all anti-suffragists here and in Albany to meet her in joint debate.

Entertainment at luncheon was promised the marchers when they reached Garrison today and in their honor tonight the suffragettes of Fishkill will give a reception. Business engagements forced Alphonse Major, the "quartermaster" of the expedition, to desert today and a picturesque farm wagon replaced his automobile as a baggage conveyance.

Reinforced by three local suffragettes and one new recruit from New York, the marchers got under way shortly before 10 o'clock, after equipping themselves with new rubber boots. The weather at that hour showed signs of clearing.

SKELETON WAS BURIED IN LIME

SEEKING HIS SLAYER

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 19.—The skeleton of Henry Dayton, who disappeared mysteriously two years ago, was found today by the police beneath a layer of earth and quicklime in the cellar of the Dayton home in North I street.

That Dayton had been murdered and his body carried into the cellar and buried to hide the crime there is no doubt, according to the police, who say the evidence they have found is supported in detail by information which they have received from Mrs. Dayton, widow of the murdered man.

A man whose name the police have refused to disclose, but who is now being sought, is alleged by Dayton's widow to have been her husband's slayer. This information, she says, was given her a few days ago, when she received a letter from the alleged murderer telling of the crime. Mrs. Dayton, it is said, turned the letter over to the police today.

Supt. Gorman with Coroner Pierce at once went to the Dayton home in the northern part of the city and began an investigation. At the foot of the cellar stairs the police began to dig.

Less than two feet beneath the surface they uncovered the skeleton of a man. Alternate layers of earth and lime covered the body and the lime had done its work well for not a vistige of flesh was on the bones and there were few bits of clothing found. The back

SAYS WORK IS PILING HIGH

Congressman Cline Home from Washington for the Holidays.

INTRODUCES BILL TO AID SHIPPERS

New Measure Provides for More Rapid Movement of Live Stock.

Congressman Cyrus Cline, returning from Washington, D. C., to his home at Angola, where he will spend the holidays, stopped off long enough in Fort Wayne this afternoon to meet several of his friends and discuss with them some of the things which has most interested the house so far during the present session. Among other things, Mr. Cline states that work at the national capital is far behind at this time.

"At this date, the house has only passed two bills, the legislative and judicial appropriation bill and the Indian appropriation bill. Usually at this time, or by the time of adjournment for the holidays, at least five bills have been acted upon.

"Among the most important legislation thus far," said Mr Cline, "is the immigration bill, which keeps out all aliens over sixteen years of age who can neither read or write."

Cline's New Bill.

Congressman Cline has just introduced a bill, which, if passed, will be of great benefit to shippers of live stock. The bill asks that common carriers of live stock, enroute from shipper to destination, make at least an average time of fifteen miles per hour. A committee from the Tri-State Live Stock association of Indiana, Ohio and Michigan is responsible for the introduction of the measure. Shippers complain of delays in shipment of stock for certain markets at certain prices, and declare that much money is lost each year on account of delay in shipment on the part of the common carriers.

Mr. Cline's assistant secretary, R. E. Peters, who went to Washington two weeks ago, will remain in the capital city during the Christmas season, as there is a gigantic amount of work to be done. More than 30,000 seed packages are to be sent out, in addition to 12,000 farm bulletins. After this detailed work is taken care of the public document list will come up for attention.

The Inauguration.

In discussing the proposed plan to delay the inauguration ceremonies for six weeks, Mr. Cline stated that the proposition was a scheme on the part of Washington business men who wished to have their city crowded with visitors on two occasions, first when the president takes the oath of office and next during the inauguration ceremonies. The matter has been definitely settled, however, and the ceremonies will be held the same time the president takes his oath.

TAFT PARTY OFF TONIGHT

President Will Start on His Hurried Trip to Panama.

HOUSE ADJOURNS FOR HOLIDAYS

Appeal on Indiana Constitution Case Reaches Supreme Court.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The president, Mrs. Taft and their invited guests will leave Washington tonight for Key West, Fla., on the first leg of a flying trip to Panama. The president and his friends will eat their Christmas turkey in the tropics, spend three days inspecting the greatest engineering feat in the world and Mr. Taft will be back in Washington in time to shake hands with a few thousand persons at his last New Year's reception.

The president's party will be away from Washington twelve days. Four will be spent on trains, five at sea and three in Panama. It will be the president's fifth visit to the zone and his first to Florida. It will be not merely a pleasure trip for the president. He has determined to make Col. Geo. W. Goethals, builder of the canal, governor of the zone under the forthcoming civil administration. He wishes to discuss the organization of the force which is to operate the canal after it is opened, with the governor-to-be. It probably will be Mr. Taft's last visit to the canal before the ships go through.

House Adjourns for Holiday.

The house today adjourned for the Christmas holiday recess until January 2, without receiving President Taft's message. The message, however, was

NEGROES HOLDING GIRL FOR RANSOM

Police Chief Says Kansas City Miss Has Been Kidnaped.

SEARCH UNAVAILING

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 19.—Irene Justin, a pretty eleven-year-old girl, daughter of Frank Justin, a cabinet maker, has been kidnapped and is being held by negroes for ransom, according to the belief of the police, who it developed today, have searched the city since Monday for the girl.

Irene's mother last Sunday took her to Holmes square, a down town place for children. The mother left the square for a few minutes. Irene remained. When Mrs. Justin returned the child was gone. Irene's playmates said a negro man and woman had told Irene her mother was ill and wanted her at once and that she had walked away with them willingly.

After searching the streets for an hour the mother reported the matter to the police. No trace of the girl has been found.

GOV. MARSHALL TO BE HONOR GUEST

Will Be in Fort Wayne During Local Reception for His Wife.

AT ANTHONY HOTEL

Governor Thomas R. Marshall, vice president elect, with Mrs. Marshall will be in Fort Wayne Tuesday afternoon of next week, enroute to Columbia City where they will spend Christmas. It is very likely that they will spend the greater part of the day in this city, and arrangements are being made by local democrats to hold a reception for Mr. Marshall. This will be his first visit to Fort Wayne since his election to the vice presidency.

Mrs. Marshall is to be the guest of honor at a reception and luncheon at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Anthony hotel. The hostess will be Mrs. McLallen of Columbia City, who has invited quite a number of Mrs. Marshall's Fort Wayne friends. The dining room at the hotel will be tastily decorated in Christmas greens and the event is looked forward to with eagerness.

140 SLAIN IN FIERCE BATTLE

LATER BEATEN OFF

Adalajara, Mexico, Dec. 19.—One hundred rebels and forty rural guards and townspeople were killed in a fierce battle at Huejuquilla yesterday. The town was sacked by the rebels, who committed many outrages.

A force of 600 rebels, commanded by Gen. Cheche Campos, attacked the little town of Huejuquilla in the state of Jalisco. The garrison, which consisted of fifty rural guards with the assistanced of armed citizens, held them off for thirty hours until the store of ammunition in the town was exhausted.

Then the rebels forced their way in, burned many of the buildings in the town and committed every kind of outrage, according to reports which have reached here. Some hours later reinforcements of government troops drove the rebels off, after killing a large number of them.

RODEBAUGH WILL IS FOUND VALID

Judge Eggeman Renders Decision Involving Big Estate.

MAY BE AN APPEAL

Judge John W. Eggeman delivered an opinion in the circuit court today in which he decided that the will of the late John Rodebaugh is valid and that its provisions will stand. There will probably be an appeal to one of the higher state courts as about $100,000 is involved and the children of a deceased sister were not given any interest in the property and they are not satisfied with the division.

Suit was instituted by Samuel A., John E. and Jacob H. Raub, Emeline Hayward, Elizabeth Rodebaugh and Etta R. Collins to have the document set aside. They charged that inasmuch as some of the heirs are to receive no benefit until they are thirty years of age that a perpetuity was created in conflict with the statutes.

Objection was also raised to the creation of annuities for the sisters and brothers and it was charged that the will is vague and ambiguous. It is also asserted that the interests are not vested in anyone, that they are contingent and void for that reason.

The judge took the view that the interests are vested for the reason that the beneficiaries who get annuities secured immediate benefit, the intent of the testator is made plain in the will and that while a trust may have been created without a trustee the provisions of the will can be carried out by the executor under the direction of the court.

The action was filed a year ago and ten days ago it was argued at length before Judge Eggeman. He gave the matter a week of his time and handed down an opinion covering seven pages in which he covered very carefully all of the law points and held that the will expressed the desires of the testator.

Santa Claus' Wife

Earnestly Sought a Blessing.

CHRISTMAS is always a glad time at the George Vandrnam home on West Wayne street, and for the last few years one at least of the three children of the household has been of the age to appreciate the visit of Santa Claus to the fullest extent. This year, one of the children, Howard, is "too old," Elizabeth is "too young," but Charles is "just right."

And so this story deals with Charles. He was saying his prayers the other evening, when he earnestly sought a blessing on "Santa Claus and Merry Christmas."

"Merry Christmas?" inquired his mother, after the petition had closed. "isn't it a little strange to be asking a blessing on Merry Christmas?"

"No, mamma," said Charles, "because when Santa was here last winter he told me that Mary Christmas was his wife."

TRACTION HEADS TO MEET IN CITY

Central Division of "Safety First" Committee to Talk Plans.

FOR FUTURE LABORS

The central division of the "Safety First" committee of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, including all the heads of departments from cities along the line, will meet in the office of Assistant General Manager Sam W. Greenland Saturday afternoon. Among others in attendance will be the chairman of all the sub-committees organized thus far.

The meeting has been called for the purpose of further discussing the plan recently inaugurated for the elimination of accidents. The "safety first" committee has been organized only a few weeks yet it is said that the employes have taken keen interest in the movement, and are doing all in their power to cut down the rate of accidents on the company's lines.

Each day numerous reports are being submitted to Secretary Schneider and R. R. Richie, supervisor of safety, showing that the plan is already on a working basis. The new organization makes it the duty of each employe to submit reports concerning any features of the company's operations which might at some time result in an accident. The report is then investigated and the danger eliminated at the earliest possible opportunity.

He said he would furnish a statement showing the figures. Mr. Morgan said he and his partners were directors in some of the interstate corporations that "have accounts with J. P. Morgan & Co." His counsel agreed to furnish a list of those directorships.

Mr. Morgan produced, in response to a question, copies of the fiscal agreements between J. P. Morgan & Co. and the New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad companies. Mr. Morgan said there were no other such agreements made by his house. He said the firm acted as fiscal agent for other companies "by tacit agreement."

"You are acting for a number of other corporations, are you not, including the United States Steel corporation?" suggested Mr. Untermeyer.

"Yes, but that is by a resolution of the board of directors of the steel corporation," said Mr Morgan.

As to other agreements whereby the Morgan house became fiscal agents for corporations, he said they were "by word of mouth or by correspondence."

Sole Bankers for Railroad.

Mr. Untermeyer read part of the New York Central fiscal agreement by which Morgan & Co. were made sole bankers for the railroad. Mr. Morgan said he had been a director of the New York Central about thirty-five years. Included in the fiscal agreement of the New York Central lines were the Michigan Central, the Lake Shore and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railroads. Mr. Morgan said some issues of New York Central securities had been made in the last ten years through other bankers than his house.

"I can't recall any but I think there were some," said he.

"In the last five years?"

"I don't remember of any. None that I can recall just now." His firm would furnish information on that point. Mr. Morgan said the firm had handled "several hundred million" dollars worth of New York Central securities and he thought that in the last ten years those securities had all been handled on a commission basis.

Mr. Morgan thought the New Haven, too, had issued securities not handled by his firm in the last ten years.

Mr. Untermeyer read from the papers furnished by Mr. Morgan the proposal from the Morgan house accepted by the New Haven. Morgan & Co. proposed in return for being made sole fiscal agents of the New Haven lines to loan the New Haven road 90 per cent of the agreed sale price of its securities at a "reasonable rate of interest" and to give the road the "benefits of counsel and advice."

This proposal was accepted Jan. 11, 1911, by the Maine Central Dec. 28, 1910, by the Boston & Maine and Dec. 19, 1910, by the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the acceptance in each case being signed by Charles S. Mellen.

Had Supplied Data.

"Can you give us from memory a list of other interstate corporations for which you are fiscal agents?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

Mr. Morgan could remember no others except the United States steel corporation and could not estimate the number. Mr. Morgan said his firm had supplied the committee with data on that point. Mr. Untermeyer replied that such data included only those corporations with which Morgan & Co. had formal agreements. Mr. Morgan said his firm acted for the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Northern Pacific and the Southern railroad, although they had no agreements with them.

"Don't you think that interstate corporations should be entirely free to sell their securities in the open market and not be tied up to one firm no matter how just its methods?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"No not necessarily," replied Mr. Morgan. He said there was plenty of competition for railroad securities.

"Do you think it would be better for the railroad to be able to offer its securities to another banking house?"

"No, I do not," returned Mr. Morgan. "You must remember that all securities sold and issued are not always good, and when there is a responsible fiscal agent there is moral strength behind them."

"Will you name any instance of a railroad bond proving bad where your firm has had to pay the loss?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"I can't remember any case, but I know there have been several," said Mr. Morgan.

Could Recall No Case.

"Look over the whole history of the railroad business and see if you can find one case where the bankers have had to stand the loss."

"Well, I've had a good deal of railroading—" interrupted Mr. Morgan with a smile.

"Yes, that's why I'm asking you about it," rejoined Mr. Untermeyer.

Mr. Morgan said he could recall no specific case.

Mr. Untermeyer turned to the fiscal arrangement with the United States steel corporation. "Didn't you name the entire board of directors of the United States steel corporation?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"Didn't you say who should go on and who stay off?"

"I possibly did the latter," replied the financier, and a laugh swept out from the crowd.

"Who fixed the prices at which the various subsidiary companies should go into the organization?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"I approved the price," said Mr. Morgan.

"Whom of the steel corporation selects the banks where its funds shall be kept?"

"The finance committee."

"Who selected J. P. Morgan & Co.?"

"Why, it was sort of ex-officio. J. P. Morgan & Co. then had the whole company and its funds naturally came to us."

Buys All He Can Get.

Mr. Morgan added he had bought all the steel stock he could get hold of, that he had never lost confidence in the steel corporation and that he had never advised any one to sell, although it went to $8 a share. He knew of no pools or syndicates formed to deal in steel stock.

Mr. Untermeyer took up the sale of large issues of stock. Mr. Morgan said that in some instances stock issues were underwritten by syndicates formed by his firm. He explained that the personnal of the syndicate was generally different. Mr. Untermeyer wanted to know if there existed a list of names from which these syndicates were made up.

"It depends something on the nature of the securities," said Mr. Morgan. The class we would offer one kind of securities, we would not offer to another."

"Those syndicates have been generally profitable?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"Yes, generally. If they had not, the members would not go into them."

Morgan Allowed to Share.

Mr. Morgan said many banks and trust companies in New York were allowed to participate in the syndicates.

Mr. Untermeyer declared that the Lee Higginson company of Boston, the First National bank of Chicago and other institutions of note wanted to participate in these syndicates.

"They don't work with us but they take or refuse an offer we make," said Morgan.

Mr. Untermeyer asked if there were not many banks in New York not allowed to participate in the Morgan underwritings.

"Many don't want to participate," replied the witness.

Mr. Morgan's throat became husky and he turned to his daughter, Mrs. Satterlee and asked for a throat tablet. Mrs. Satterlee produced it from a handbag.

"Do you want a glass of water?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"No, thanks," said Mr. Morgan.

"If you get tired," suggested Mr. Untermeyer, "don't hesitate to say so."

"I'm not tired," returned the financier.

"Can you tell us of the amount of securities marketed by your firm year by year?"

Mr. Morgan could not say. He did not believe it would amount to $1,000,000,000 a year. He agreed to furnish a statement to show the amount.

"I think its generally over-estimated," he remarked.

Mr. Morgan took up the relations of the Morgan firm and the First National, which he referred to as "Baker's bank." He said he personally had been close to George F. Baker "since 1873." He said the two firms were together in a great many bond and stock issues.

Mr. Morgan said his son, not himself, was a director in the National City bank.

Only About a Million.

"But you are a large stockholder," suggested Mr. Untermeyer.

"Oh, no, only about a million dollars' worth," said Mr. Morgan.

He seemed surprised at the general laugh that greeted the answer, but joined in it.

Mr. Untermeyer asked if he were a large stockholder in the National Bank of Commerce.

Mr. Morgan consulted a moment with Henry P. Davison, one of his partners, and finally said $1,000,000 worth of stock in the Bank of Commerce was held by his firm and $686,000 worth by parties in the firm.

Mr. Untermeyer asked if the Morgan house did not look after the prosperity and welfare of the banks in which it had holdings.

"We don't bother ourselves much about that; they look after themselves," said Mr. Morgan.

"But members of your firm are on their boards of directors?"

"Yes."

"And they are supposed to look out for the interests of your firm?"

"Yes."

"They give their time to it?"

"Yes. I have always said they give too much time," said Mr. Morgan.

Few Voting Trusts.

Mr. Morgan said he knew of only two or three voting trusts now outstanding in the Morgan house, organized for the handling of securities.

"There was one for the International Harvester company?"

"I did not know anything about that."

"But it was in your office?"

"Yes, I guess it was, but Mr. Perkins had charge of that," said Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Untermeyer suggested that American stockholders took little interest in the management of their corporations.

"Yes," said Mr. Morgan, "that is why when a company is reorganized we organize a voting trust in order to protect the company.

Mr. Morgan had Mr. Untermeyer read into the record the report of the voting trustees of the Reading railroad company made in 1904 when the trustees surrendered the company to stockholders.

Mr. Untermeyer read the figures showing the prosperity voting trustees had brought to the Reading.

"How much has the price of coal been raised?" asked Mr. Untermeyer when he finished.

Mr. Morgan said he did not know.

"You don't know how much the Reading has increased the price of coal to secure this prosperity?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"No, I don't know what the price has been," said Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Untermeyer asked if one banker, such as Mr. Morgan, would not have enormous control if he had voting trusts in all the railroads, banks or industrial corporations.

"But that would be impossible," said Mr. Morgan.

"They could not control the bank so long as they were in the minority. I don't think I could carry any proposition through any board of directors against the wishes of the stockholders."

"You are opposed to competition?"

"No. But I would rather have combination than competition. I like a little competition, but I like combination better. I'd like to say something right here that I may not have a chance to say again. Without control you cannot do a thing. Control is the important thing. Now you speak of a money trust, no one man can get control of all the money."

"You mean no one man could monopolize money?"

"Yes, that's it."

"But when a man has a vast power such as you have—as you admit you have, don't you?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"No," answered Mr. Morgan.

"Don't you feel it?" asked the lawyer.

"No, I don't," replied the financier.

"No man you think could keep control of money?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"You believe that when he abuses his power he loses it?"

"That's right," said Mr. Morgan, "the question of control is personal as to money and credit. All the money in Christendom and all the banks in Christendom could not control money. There could be no money trust."

Mr. Untermeyer asked if men had not monopolized railroads and industry and abused their powers.

Against One-Man Control.

"I am not discussing the question of railroads or merchandise, I am talking money and credit," said Mr. Morgan. He said a man might get control of the former but could not get the latter.

Mr. Undermeyer asked whether Mr. Morgan thought competition among banks on concentration would be better.

"I'd rather have competition," replied Mr. Morgan when pressed for an answer. He said he thought several men could be directors in different banks and competition still be maintained between the banks. He added that he did not believe man should run a great enterprise.

"Don't you run your firm?"

"No, I do not."

He said he did not favor one man control of great enterprises of any kind, even railroads.

The committee recessed for luncheon.

Mr. Morgan when he returned to the stand after recess said he did not know of any but did not think that either domination of railroads by bankers or the unity of interest of bankers had anything to do with it.

"Don't you and other bankers control the Reading railroad?" asked Mr Untermeyer.

If So, Doesn't Know It.

"No, sir; if we do I don't know it," said Mr. Morgan.

"You don't think you have any power in any line of industry in this country?"

"No, I do not," said Mr. Morgan.

"Your power in any direction is entirely unconscious to you?"

"Yes, sir."

The consolidation of the Lake Shore and Michigan Central railroads into the New York Central lines was brought up by Mr. Untermeyer.

"You believed in buying up the competing line?"

"Why, sure."

Mr. Untermeyer asked about the consolidation of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads in the Northern Securities merger.

"What was your idea as to the reason for destroying competition there?" asked the lawyer.

"I don't know," said Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Untermeyer then began a series of questions about the elimination of competition in the organization of the United States Steel corporation but interrupted himself. "I will not go into that," he said. "That is now in litigation and I will not question you about it."

Control of Equitable.

Mr. Morgan testified that he bought control of the Equitable Life Assurance society from "Mr. Ryan and Mr. Harriman." He secured, he said, about $51,000 worth of stock for which he paid about $3,000,000.

"The company pays 7 per cent dividends?"

"Yes. That is, $3,710 on your stock."

"About one-eighth or one-ninth of 1 per cent on the investment?"

"Yes."

Mr. Untermeyer insisted on knowing why Mr. Morgan had thought it good business to buy the Equitable stock at the price that paid only one-ninth of 1 per cent interest. Mr. Morgan said he thought it was "good for the situation."

Mr. Untermeyer asked why it was not just as good for the situation in the hands of Mr. Ryan and Mr. Harriman.

"I don't know," said Mr. Morgan.

"But you thought it was better for you to have it?"

"That's the way it struck me," said Mr. Morgan.

"I think it should be turned over—that is the stock to the policy holders," he said. "That has always been my idea."

"You mean sell it to the policy holders for $3,000,000?"

"For just the price I paid for it."

"Then I don't understand why you bought the stock."

"Only because I thought it was the thing to do."

sent also to the senate, which remained in session.

The senate before the message was delivered to it went into executive session to consider President Taft's appointment, confirmation of which had been held up by the democrats. The result of the session was one confirmation, that of John H. Brown as postmaster at Concord, N. H.

Then the senate went into session as a court of impeachment to continue the trial of Judge Archbald of the commerce court. If the senate does not receive the message today it will go over until January 2 and in the mean time cannot be published.

Pardon For Slocum's Captain.

The president today granted a pardon to Captain Wm. H. Van Schaick, who commanded the steamboat General Slocum which was burned in 1904 in East river, off New York City, resulting in the loss of 1,030 lives, mostly women and children. The pardon becomes effective Christmas day. Van Schaick has been out of prison on pardon for some time.

Captain Van Schaick in 1906 was convicted and sentenced to ten years imprisonment for criminal negligence in failure to have sufficient life saving and fire equipment aboard his vessel. He had served five years when paroled last February.

Two hundred and fifty thousand people signed the petition to President Taft asking his pardon. Two previous attempts to secure pardon for him failed.

ROYAL LINE IN FUNERAL MARCH

Body of Late Prince Regent Luitpold Consigned to the Tomb.

FOLLOW OLD CUSTOMS

Munich, Bavaria, Dec. 19.—The body of the late Prince Regent Luitpold of Bavaria was carried this morning to its sepulchre beneath the altar of the Church of the Theatines in the city, where it was laid beside that of King Maximilian II.

The German emperor, the king of the Belgians, the king of Saxony, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent of Austria-Hungary, and a number of princes representing the royal houses of Europe followed the coffin in the procession, which passed through streets crowded with silent mourners. All the time the procession was on the way to the church and also during the service minute guns were fired and the church bells throughout the city were tolled. Although during his life the aged prince regent had declined to adopt the royal title because, as he said, the real king was still living but unable to rule on account of insanity, Bavaria treated the dead Luitpold with kingly honors.

The funeral was conducted with all the ritual employed in the case of dead Bavarian sovereigns, including the escort attired in mediaeval costumes, while the coffin was accompanied by cow-led candle bearers. The heart of the dead regent was embalmed separately and interred with those of many preceding Bavarian rulers at the village of Alt-Oetting where it reposes in a silver case beside the famous shrine of the Virgin Mary.

Power of the Money Kings.

Nothing more striking has been presented to the congressional committee investigating the so-called "money trust" than the tabulated compilation illustrating the much-talked-of interlocking directorates. Summarized, it sets forth that eighteen of the leading financial concerns in this country, through their ramification of interests, absolutely dominate more than twenty-five billions of the nation's wealth; that one hundred and eighty men in these eighteen concerns hold a total of 385 directorships in forty-one banks and trust companies scattered about the financial centers of the country.

The tremendous power which it is possible to exercise with a control so vast as this can scarcely be calculated. In the industrial world we have come to agree that concentration of power and control to a degree less vast than this, is a menace to public welfare. We have instituted suit to dissolve this trust and that, upon the ground that their existence amounted to a menace to equal chance and simple business decency. We have been insisting that interlocking directorates were vicious because they multiplied power to an unfair degree, yet there has been permitted to grow up a financial octopus that makes some of the other trusts seem cheap and tawdry by comparison. The house committee investigations are plainly developing some information that is tremendous, both in interest and importance.

To those who may have entertained the belief that he was down and out so far as further public activity is concerned, the appearance of Former Senator Foraker, of Ohio, as a witness before the money trust investigating committee, was something of a revelation. The erstwhile Ohio fire alarm still has some fight left in him, and his loving respects to Mr. Hearst were paid in a fashion that left no doubt of his personal conviction regarding the editor man who got hold of the Archbold letters by the payment of a handsome sum of money to men who did not hesitate to commit theft to secure them.

When an Elkhart woman, an ardent advocate of votes for women, received notice from the county treasurer to the effect that she was delinquent in the matter of taxes, she promptly took her good pen in hand and indited a few opinions on the situation, the mildest of which was the declaration that taxation of women is larceny in the form of law. That sort of spirit compels admiration, and it may in time be effective in working reform, but in all probability the tax-collector was unable to see his way clear to accepting the vigorous epistle as legal tender in the discharge of the tax account.

---

The people will watch with unusual interest the municipal undertaking of garbage collection as a substitute to the contract system which has been in force for many years, and the new plan has much that is promising to commend it. Besides, it cannot possibly be more unsatisfactory than the old plan.

---

Under a court decision which has just been handed down, the city of Kokomo is to become "wet" once more. Kokomo must be possessed of a most phenomenal thirst to have induced it to keep up the fight to get the groggeries back all through these weary months.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

(Indianapolis News.)

It is said that the Pujo committee will recommend that stock exchange manipulation be prohibited, short sales curbed, and that actual deliveries of stock be made at the exchange clearing houses. A recent writer reminds us that every one of these suggestions was "disposed of by the Hughes commission." That commission held that manipulation by large interests for the making of a market for new securities "has certain advantages, and when not accompanied by matched orders is unobjectionable per se." "It is essential," the commission thought, "to the organization and carrying through of important enterprises." And yet the price fixed by this manipulation may not be an honest price. Often it is not. When stocks are depressed by those who wish to buy them, or boomed by those who wish to sell them the price at which they are bought or sold may give a very unfair idea as to the value of the property.

It is admitted that manipulation "designed to serve merely speculative purposes in the effort to make a profit as a result of fluctuations planned in advance," is "open to serious criticism." It is not always easy to distinguish between the two kinds of manipulation. There is always present the desire to make a profit out of fluctuations, and these may in both cases be "planned in advance." "When continued manipulation exists," said the Hughes commission, "it is patent to experienced observers." That is no doubt true, but it is not patent to inexperienced observers or investors. Whether these make profits or not depends altogether on their ability to guess the purposes of the controlling men.

We ought to judge the stock exchange by the claims that are made for it by its champions. We are told for instance that it offers a fair market for securities, a market in which prices are fairly fixed by legitimate trading. As a matter of fact its services in this regard are slight. Men bet on whether prices will go up or down, and whether they go up or down depends almost entirely on the plans of the two big groups which control the street. The exchange is not a market, but a battle ground. It has been admitted by a former president of the exchange that a large part of its business—short selling—is gambling.

SAFETY FIRST.

(New York World.)

Of the eighty-one fatal train accidents lately investigated by the interstate commerce commission, forty-nine were due to collisions and thirty-one to derailments. Practically all of the derailments were caused by defective roadbed and rails, for which there was little or no excuse. Practically all of the collisions were caused by mistakes of employes, which present the harder problem to solve.

These are matters properly given first place in the commission's annual report. What can be done to reduce the chances of human error? and what to neutralize the effect when it occurs?

Something can be done in answer to the first question by extending the block system, which, with all its exposure to human error, is better than the train order system. Even more may be done by reforming the rules of train operation which remain unchanged under great changes in train speed and traffic volume, and making them uniform for all roads.

Something can be done in answer to the second question by moderating the speed of fast trains. More might be done in the application of automatic stop devices. Much is already being done by the extending introduction of steel cars.

Loss of life from train accidents happens everywhere, but nowhere to the extent found here relative to volume of passenger traffic. It is a national scandal which must be abated, and to keep the railroads under the lash of public agitation becomes a public duty of high importance.

AMBASSADORS AND THEIR SALARIES.

President Taft has formally decided that he will not appoint a successor to the late Whitelaw Reid, ambassador to England, for the three months that intervene between the present date and the inauguration of Mr. Wilson. The question of the appointment of a diplomatic representative to the court of St. James brings to mind once more the topic that has to do with the salaries of our foreign representatives. It is pretty well known that Dorchester house, the London residence of Ambassador Reid, cost him each year in rental about three times his total salary. Coupled with that was the tremendous expense attached to the position in the way of official entertainments, maintenance of social duties, aid to countrymen and innumerable charges, not essentially necessary, but still nearly so, all of which ran the total cost of being ambassador to England up to a sum that only a multi-millionaire could withstand. The same condition prevails in every other American embassy abroad. The salary is a mere incident of which the incumbent takes no account. Yet there are always plenty of men who are willing to pay for the honor.

TERRIBLE ITCHING AND BURNING

Scalp Eczema for About Five Years. Form of Ringworm. Thick, Rough Scale. Entirely Well After Using Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Iberia, Mo.—"I was troubled with scalp eczema for about five years and tried everything I heard of but all of no avail. The doctors told me I would have to have my head shaved. Being a woman I hated the idea of that.

"I was told by a friend that the Cuticura Remedies would do me good. This spring I purchased two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap. After using one box of Cuticura Ointment I considered the cure permanent, but continued to use it to make sure and used about one-half the other box. Now I am entirely well. I also used the Cuticura Soap.

"The disease began on the back of my head, taking the form of a ringworm only more severe, rising to a thick, rough scale that would come off when soaked with oil or warm water, bringing a few hairs each time, but in a few days would form again, larger each time, and spreading until the entire back of the head was covered with the scale. This was accompanied by a terrible itching and burning sensation. Now my head is completely well and my hair growing nicely." (Signed) Mrs. G. F. Clark, Mar. 25, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Girl, Hunting Eggs, Faints When Reptile Coils Around Her Arm.

New York, Dec. 19.—When Miss Alice Longcor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Longcor of Newton, N. J., reached into a hen's nest in search of eggs, her hand touched not an egg, but the clammy back of a large blacksnake, which had crawled into the nest for a nap. It coiled around the girl's arm. Miss Longcor screamed and fell in a faint. When her father arrived in answer to her cry he found the snake unwinding itself from her arm and trying to get away. He dispatched it and then turned his attention to his daughter. Her nerves were shaken, but otherwise she was unharmed.

TEACHERS MUST NOT DANCE.

Idaho Pupils Forbidden to Use Powder or Paint.

Kellog, Idaho, Dec. 19.—Teachers in the Wardner-Kellog schools will be advised before the opening of school that they will not be allowed to attend public dances, and they will also be ordered to put a stop to the girls in the public schools using either powder or paint.

The order will come as a surprise, especially the one concerning dancing. The board holds that the teachers set a bad example for the children, and that the teachers are not as well qualified to work the day following a dance. While there has not been much powder and paint used by the pupils, the board took cognizance of the fact that a few have appeared in the classrooms with artificial beauty on their faces.

BRIDGE PROJECT WILL BE KILLED

Board Has No Fund to Build Approach at Barthold Street.

READY FOR SESSION

It is likely that the Barthold bridge project will be killed during a conference scheduled for this afternoon between the board of public works and members of the Northside Civic Improvement association, who have been working on the plan for several months.

The reason is the same that has been the death knell of a number of such undertakings—there is no money available with which the approaches can be constructed. Members of the board have never openly said so, but they have held the same view as the city council has in the matter and that is the undertaking is too expensive.

President Frank Benoy and Member E. J. Lennon, of the board of public works, spent part of the morning in conference with Engineer Frank Randall, but he had no means of ascertaining the cost of the south approach, but the fact that it would have to be carried across the Guildlin play grounds indicates that it will cost a big sum.

The board had arranged to meet the members of the association this afternoon and had gone over the ground carefully. It is the duty of the city to build all approaches and there is no money for this and unless the civic improvement enthusiasts can suggest a feasible plan the administration is up against a hard proposition.

The action of the council in turning down the proposition to straighten the channel of St. Mary's river was met with a movement to build the bridge with the stream as it is now and this is to be threshed out at the meeting.

Mr. Randall ascertained today that it is necessary to cover only 195 feet more in following the river bank from the foot of Barthold street to the Van Buren street bridge and across to Superior street and this is one argument in favor of constructing a drive way on the north bank.

GETS HEAVY FINE FOR BAD DRIVING

Jacob Poinsette Pays $100 for Operating Auto While Drunk.

LORD IS ACQUITTED

Jacob Poinsette was fined $100 and costs in the city court this morning for driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. He was arrested by Officer Brown yesterday after he had driven the machine through the streets at a wild rate of speed. Poinsette narrowly missed meeting his doom also when he side-swiped a street car on Calhoun street. Poinsette said in court that his machine skidded against the car as he was turning a corner. The law provides a stiff fine and jail sentence for such driving, on account of the great danger and Poinsette was warned that a repetition of the offence will result in a long jail sentence. He paid the fine.

Lord Acquitted.

Enos Lord, charged with assault and battery, was dismissed. The complaining witness in the case was Lord's twenty-year-old daughter, and the trouble started last night when the daughter refused to obey the parental command to dismiss her "company" and retire to bed. # SERIOUS CHARGE FILED IN COURT

Action Started to Gain Possession of Gruber Property.

WORTH ABOUT $35,000

John W. Bruns filed in the circuit court today an action in which he seeks to obtain from Daniel C. Cope real estate valued at from $35,000 to $40,000, representing the estate of Charlotte Gruber Cope, who committed suicide on November 24, 1911.

The property involved is the house on West Washington boulevard occupied at one time by Frank Gruber, formerly a cigar manufacturer, and the storehouse on Columbia street occupied by the Becker Paper company. Sensational charges are made in the complaint to the effect that Cope, after his marriage to Mrs. Gruber on July 11, 1911, kept her constantly under his surveillance and under the influence of intoxicants and that he tried the effects of muriatic acid on a cat and killed it and that the muriatic acid taken by Mrs. Gruber to end her life was contained in a blue bottle of the same kind from which she had frequently drunk whisky which she kept constantly on hand.

It is charged in the complaint that he made a prisoner of his wife, that he would not permit her to visit her brothers and sisters and that he married her and kept her intoxicated with the purpose of filching from her her property. It is also charged that he is an accessory to the common law crime of suicide and that he aided and abetted and by constant surveillance and the use of intoxicants induced her to kill herself. Further, it is charged that he made inquiries of attorneys as to what interest he would have in his wife's estate in event of her death and that after he had ascertained he would get it in its entirety without a will he opposed her in making one although he had previously asked her to do so.

Aside from Cope, Louise A. Worch, Phil Bruns, Charlotte Cook, Florence Schaphorst, Gertrude Gotch and Estella Vogler Sander and Walter Vogler are named. They are made parties to comply with the legal requirements. The court is asked to declare the property belongs to Bruns and other heirs of Mrs. Gruber and to order a partition to the exclusion of Cope.

The action was filed by H. J. Smith and Judge Robert B. Dreibelbiss, while Joseph M. Haley and Frank J. Belot represent Mr. Cope. He denies the charges in toto. When Cope applied for appointment as administrator of the estate opposition developed to his selection and this was threshed out in court and decided in his favor. Some of the elements that enter into the present fight entered into that one.

SCENES FROM THE LIFE OF CHRIST

12.—JESUS HEALS THE PALSIED MAN.

And behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy; and they ought means to bring him in and to lay him before him. And when they could not nd by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon he housetop and let him down through the tiling, with his couch, into the midst bere Jesus.—Luke v: 18-19.

Although for years Germany has been credited with the newest ideas in toys, it has remained for the United States to produce a doll that is unbreakable.

The doll is made of wood, the head and body being solid. Head, arms and legs are joined to the body by means of steel-spring swivel and hinge joints, eliminating the use of rubber cord.

The doll's face, being of solid wood instead of composition, is artistically carved and painted in oil colors, so that it can be washed.

Hands and feet are nicely shaped and are cut from solid wood.

The make-up of the doll is clever, and there is nothing to get out of order—and when baby wants to beat up a chair, with it, the chair is more apt to suffer than the doll.

Gifts for Mothers of Young Babies

There's Time Enough Yet to Make Many Useful Things for Christmas.

A Safety Pin Book—Young mothers never have enough safety pins. A very pretty Christmas remembrance for the young mother is made of one yard of rose printed cloth folded in the center over a piece of bone such as you put in collars. This bone has tiny holes along the side. To these attach four leaves of flannel. On each leaf put a card of different sized safety pins. At the top attach baby ribbon so that it can be hung on a basket or pinned on the mother's dress.

Orris Sticks for Teething Babies—At any drug store you can buy orris wood sticks. Get two as nearly of a size and shape as possible. Through the little hole that is always in the end run a ribbon long enough to tie about the baby's neck and allow the sticks to hang down so that the baby can see each of them.

Bath Bags for the Baby—Cut white cheese cloth into strips 4 by 8 inches. Make into bags and button-hole all around with pink or blue mercerized cotton. Fill half full of a mixture of one-third almond meal and two-thirds oatmeal. To this mixture add one teaspoonful of best pulverized castile soap in each bag. If you wish you can send a half dozen bags filled and a little box full of the mixture to fill them again.

Powder Bags—Can be made of the same kind of cheese cloth. Make them a little smaller. For the filling use equal parts of Fuller's earth and corn starch. These bags filled with lycadeum powder are very fine for a fat baby who is apt to chafe easily.

Stork Pads—Cut thin rubber sheeting into a circle the size of a dinner plate. Cover each side with a layer of absorbent cotton, basting together at the edge of the rubber. Cover the pad with white batiste and crochet an edge in white cotton all around. Tie as you do a comfort, about three times. Very fine to pass with baby to admiring friends.

Apron for Baby's Bath Time—Make a long and wide apron of heavy canton flannel. To this fasten little strips of flannel on which are different sizes of safety pins and a small cushion stuck full of ordinary pins. This apron will be found very fine to cover the baby in one's lap after a bath.

Baby's Hot Water Bottle—Cover a small hot water bottle with a crochet cover of soft silk. Make the cover of single crochet. At Christmas time a hot water bottle is often needed to put at baby's feet when he goes out riding.

STARCHED GOODS.

Starched goods should be dried and then sprinkled with hot water and rolled up tightly until they are thoroughly damp. Otherwise the irons are liable to stick, particularly so if the garment is rather wet and the iron only warm.

A FLANNEL NIGHT CAP MAY NOT LOOK PRETTY, BUT IT HELPS A LOT THE NEXT DAY

Says Billie Burke.

(By Billie Burke.)

THE FIRST WORD—You can't catch a cold, neither can a cold catch you.

This is the time of year every actor dreads, for, with the beginning of cold weather, the theaters are filled with coughing, sneezing, nose-blowing individuals who are sure to break in upon his best speech and spoil it.

If only every one could understand that we do not take "cold" as we call it, from cold air, cold rooms or drafts, provided we live hygienically, we would live more serenely.

Cold air is usually pure air, as very few bacilli live at a temperature below freezing. Cold air has been demonstrated to be the very best remedy for all tubercular troubles, and yet the moment the atmosphere begins to make us tingle a great many of us close our windows, bundle up our throats and hug the radiator. Then when we "catch cold" we do not attribute it rightly to the vitiated air of our closed rooms that have bread germs, but to the bracing cold which has chilled our sluggish blood when we had to be out in it.

Every one should sleep in a room where the windows are open half the sash at least. See that you have warm covering on the bed and, if necessary, wear a canton flannel nightcap and nightdress. You may not look as pretty in bed in these comfortable garments, but I can assure you that you will look better out of it because you will not have swollen, red eyes and an inflamed nose.

The secret is to breathe cold air while keeping the body warm. You can do this when you are awake by exercise and proper clothing. When you are asleep, however, you must depend wholly upon conserving the heat thrown off by your body by the use of proper covering. Often when the vitality is low one must make use of an artificial heat produced by hot water bottles or heated bricks when one is trying to cure a cold, but do not under any circumstances, if you have influenza, go into a crowded auditorium. For your own sake keep out of street cars, department stores, churches and even theaters. (I would say this if I knew it would affect my own box office returns).

There is nothing that is more detrimental to physical beauty than a chronic "cold." One's lips become covered with fever sores and one finds one's self keeping one's mouth open until one looks as though the average modicum of brains was lacking. Eyes become bleary and bloodshot; skin becomes sallow and feverish; hands become clammy and the voice is hoarse.

Yet we seem to think that "a cold" is of no importance. We pamper our stomachs with over-eating and are too indolent to go out into the crisp, biting air. We ride in street cars crowded with insanitary human cargoes when we might have a brisk walk which would send the blood tingling through our bodies, dry our eyes, brighten our skins, close our mouths and give the warmth of health to our hands.

I pay no attention to our grandmothers' bugaboo, draughts. I never swath up my throat, nor don it my morning walk, no matter how cold the day or how deep the snow. And I have forgotten that ailment people call "cold."

JUST ONE LAST WORD—If you take cold air generously into your lungs, bathe and exercise freely, you can save on coal bills and throw your physic to the dogs.

Billie Burke

OLD ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER.

One-half pound beef suet; 2 cups flour; 1-2 pound raisins cut fine; 1 cup bread crumbs, 1-2 pound currants; 1 pound of figs cut fine; 1 pound of dates cut fine; 2 ounces citron cut fine; 1 cup of sugar, 2 level teaspoonfuls baking powder; 1-4 teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves and allspice; 1-2 teaspoonful salt; 1-2 cup of sweet milk; 2 eggs and the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon.

Mix flour, spice, baking powder and salt. Put 1-2 of mixture over fruit. Beat the eggs and sugar together thoroughly, add milk, then the fruit and flour, mix mixture a little at a time; then the remainder of the flour mixture. This will be too stiff to be stirred with a spoon. It must be mixed with the hands thoroughly.

Put in a small piece of money, a thimble and a black bean in the dough. Pour into well buttered pans and steam 6 hours.

When it is served the one who gets the money will have good luck all the year. The one who gets the thimble will have to work hard all through the next 12 months. The one who gets the bean will quarrel with his sweetheart.

This pudding is brought to the table covered with blazing brandy.

There need be no temperance scruples in serving the pudding in this fashion. All the alcohol burns out from the brandy. The idea is three-fold—to make a pretty appearance with the blue flame, to keep the pudding piping hot and to give it the delicious flavor of the burnt liquor.

SON IS HELD FOR DOUBLE KILLING

Henry Lee Moore Charged With Slaying Mother and Grandmother.

AXE WAS THE WEAPON

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 19.—Under an indictment charging him with the murder of his mother and grandmother with ax, Mrs. Georgia Moore, 63 years old, is in jail here. The bodies of his mother, Mrs. Georbia Moore, 63 years old, and his grandmother, Mrs. H. F. Wilson, 82 years old, were found in their cottage on Mores boulevard yesterday morning by the son, Mrs. Moore's only child, who said he had returned from Moberly to spend Christmas.

Pleads Not Guilty.

The murders here recall the crimes of the mysterious axman who found victims in many portions of the west. Those whom he slew were killed in a similar way. Many call this a remarkable coincidence.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the two women were killed some time last night by person or persons unknown. Moore was indicted for the murder in the first degree on information filed by the chief of police. He pleaded not guilty, but no explanation of the bloodstains found on his garments was offered.

At the inquest Moore was asked by the prosecuting attorney if he did not have an insurance policy in his pocket. Moore said he did and showed the policy. The policy is on Moore's life, payable to his mother. His mother's home was mortgaged and her equity in the property amounts to less than $1,000.

Changes His Story.

The bureau drawers of the house of Moore's mother and grandmother had been ransacked by the murderer, but neither of the old women is thought to have had much ready money.

Moore is a blacksmith's helper at the Wabash railroad car shops in Moberly, Mo., and when first arrested asserted, it is said, that he came in on the Wabash train at 8:15 yesterday morning, and was not in Columbus last night, but last night he confessed, it is asserted, that he was at the Central hotel the night before, where he was registered as L. Smith.

The ax used in the killing of the women was found in a ditch about thirty yards from the house. It is a rusty, dull ax, with a broken handle, and had been used to break up coal.

Moore called the neighbors when he found the bodies in the morning. His mother had been killed while sitting in a rocking chair, partially undressed. A liniment bottle on the floor showed she had been rubbing her rheumatic joints.

Struck While Asleep.

Moore's grandmother had already gone to bed, and from the position of the body she was asleep when struck with the ax and died without moving. Both bodies are horribly gashed about the head and throat.

The back window of the kitchen was unfastened, but the front doors were locked. No track of any kind was found about the house.

Search Moore's Room.

A search of the hotel room where Moore is alleged to have stayed last night, the police say, revealed a quantity of blood on the towels and bed clothing and on some of the clothing that the officers say Moore wore last night. The hotel proprietor, the police say, identified Moore as the occupant of the room and said Moore was nervous and acted strangely as he registered.

The conductor of a passenger train, the police charge, identified the accused man as a passenger who got off his train here yesterday afternoon.

Moore, in denying that he is guilty, said:

"All they have is circumstantial evidence. I know they have convicted many men on that, but I am going to stand my ground."

Mrs Wilson is survived by six daughters besides the one slain with her.

Mrs. Moore had one son besides the one accused of the murders.

WILSON NOW AT WORK ON CABINET

Talks With McCombs Over Distribution of the Portfolios.

BRYAN IS WILLING

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 19.—After a three-hour conference in New York with William F. McCoombs, chairman of the democratic national committee, President-elect Woodrow Wilson announced as he rode home last night that he had taken up in earnest the task of picking a cabinet.

No information was forthcoming from either Mr. McCombs or the president-elect as to the names of the men discussed for cabinet portfolios. When Mr. McCombs left the governor, he declared that both the cabinet and legislative policies had been talked over. He was asked if Mr. Bryan's name had been mentioned in the discussion. Mr. McCombs answered in the affirmative, but declined to commit himself further.

The correspondents, in questioning the governor on the train later, informed him that Mr. McCombs had said Mr. Bryan's name was mentioned in the long conference.

Conference to Be Soon.

"Oh, well," explained the president-elect, "we talked about the conference we are going to have soon with Mr. Bryan."

Mr. Wilson intimated that no time or date had been fixed for the meeting with Mr. Bryan. It was suggested to him that Mr. Bryan was due in New York Saturday to attend a dinner in honor of Governor-elect Sulzer. Mr. Wilson said he would be unable to attend the banquet. He did not know yet, however, whether he would see Mr. Bryan Sunday or immediately afterward while Mr. Bryan was in this vicinity.

The governor was asked by one of the correspondents if Mr. McCombs would be one of the men who would be with him in Washington to help him "run the government."

"Of course he will," was Mr. Wilson's reply.

He would not say whether Mr. McCombs would act in an official or unofficial capacity.

BRYAN WILL ACCEPT.

Lets Friends Know He Would Be Secretary of State.

Washington, Dec. 19.—William J. Bryan has decided to accept the premiership of President Wilson's cabinet if Wilson offers it to him, and there is no doubt that the tender will be made. All uncertainty as to Mr. Bryan's attitude has been cleared up by Bryan himself. He has informed some of his close friends in the house of representatives that he is ready and willing to accept the office of secretary of state and do his best to help President Wilson to give the country a progressive administration.

The news of Bryan's views regarding a cabinet portfolio traveled fast among his friends at the capital. He takes the position that, having advocated progressive measures for twenty years and having been largely responsible for the nomination of Wilson, he would be worse than a coward if he should refuse to join the administration family and help to put those policies into effect if the invitation comes in the right way.

Other cabinet members probably will be Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, who will be either secretary of interior or postmaster general, and Representative A. S. Burleson, of Texas, who will be either secretary of agriculture or postmaster general.

The machine was wrecked, but the occupants escaped serious injuries.

Lockhart was waiting trial for the murder of an Owensboro, Ky., policeman in Spencer county and Crowe was held for an assault on a little girl. It is believed Reagon went to jail to effect the escape. Where he came from or his real name is unknown.

SINGER'S DREAM CAME TRUE.

Vaudeville Warbler Becomes Bride of Rich Man in Box.

New York, Dec. 19.—"Oh, what a beautiful dream you seem!"

Such was the beginning of the refrain that, with the dulcet strains of the orchestra of a Harlem vaudeville theater, floated out over the audience about a week before election day and the returns are only now beginning to become known.

Miss Henrietta DeReutti was the singer, and it was always her custom to select some man in one of the boxes at which to direct the sentiment.

On this particular night Walter L. Hanson, a young man who will inherit a large fortune and whose family is related to the Leland Stanfords of California, was sitting in a box.

Now Miss DeReutti is Mrs. Walter Hanson, and her mother-in-law, who is in Saratoga Springs at present, refuses to discuss the precipitous marriage.

COUGHED ALL NIGHT

Till This Recipe Was Tried. Cure Followed in 5 Hours.

A prominent medical man who suffered with a severe cough and cold on the lungs, often being kept awake all night, and weakened by loss of sleep, finally discovered a simple formula which will cure any cough in five hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by anyone, and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who pass sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical and beats any high-priced, slow-acting cough medicine ever sold.

Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.—Adv.

REVERSES ALLEN SUPERIOR COURT

Supreme Court Finds Error in Monroeville Telephone Suit.

ANOTHER IN ADAMS

Indianapolis, Dec 19.—The supreme court has reversed the Allen superior court for giving the Monroeville Home Telephone company a judgment for $804 against the Fort Wayne, Van Wert and Lima Traction company for damages caused by a high voltage feed wire of the railroad falling across a telephone wire during a heavy sleet.

The trial court gave the jury an instruction stating that the burden of proof was on the railroad to show that the telephone company was not guilty of contributory negligence. The supreme court says that this being a suit for damages to property by negligence and not a personal damage suit, that the instruction was so clearly erroneous that the case must be reversed.

In Adams County, Also.

The appellate court reversed the Adams circuit court in the suit of the Citizens' Telephone company against the Fort Wayne & Springfield Railway company for damages caused by the high voltage electricity of the railway company.

The complaint in the action was in three paragraphs. A demurrer was filed to the first two paragraphs, while the trial court sustained the demurrer to all three paragraphs, and the telephone company appealed. The appellate court considers the two paragraphs to which the demurrers were filed and says they did not show a cause of action, but takes up the question of the control of high voltage electricity, and holds that if negligence in its transmission is shown, and that it thereby injures a telephone company, that the railroad would be responsible for damages. The court says that the inclination of the present decisions is to require persons to operate their own business without unnecessarily interfering with or damaging the business or property of another.

GET PERMIT TO WED BY PHONE.

Clerk in Minnesota County Authorizes Ceremony.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 19.—It lacked only one hour until Dr. W. O. Fryberger and Miss Mary Hughes, both of Minneapolis, were to be married at Miss Hughes summer home near Buffalo, Minn., and the clerk of the district court had refused a license to Dr. Fryberger on the ground that the parties did not reside in the county. During that hour Dr. Fryberger called the clerk of the district court in Minneapolis, made an affidavit over the telephone and received permission to wed by the same way, the clerk of the court at Buffalo taking the fee for the Hennepin county office.

THINKS MAN A SUICIDE.

Body of Man Found Beneath Bridge at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 19.—The body of Israel Deischer, 50, of Lancaster, Wabash county, Ill., was found yesterday under the Maryland street bridge over Pigeon creek. He was shot in the abdomen and a revoolver was found thirty feet away. It was supposed to be suicide.

Last night he was identified by his nephew, Austin Cecil. Cecil says Deischer came here Monday to buy a home and retire from the farm. Deischer was married three weeks ago for the first time. His bride does not yet know of his death. Cecil says Deischer was shot at four or five times in the past few years by some unknown enemy. The police are without a clue.

TAKE MONEY AND ESTABLISH FUND

Fielder Jones Advances an Idea for Protective Association.

IS WORTH A THOUGHT

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Fielder Jones, who at one time was the manager of the White Sox, and is now the president of the Northwestern league, believes that the players' share of world's series money should go into a common fund to take care of brokendown players. He states that this should be one of the first things the Players' Protective association should take up.

Jones shared in a big heap of money in 1906, when his club got in on the winner's end of $33,401.79, besides a bonus by President Comiskey of $15,000. Jones brought up the subject when he was asked what he thought of Garry Herrmann's proposition of rewarding each of the winning club's players with $1,000 and each of the losers with $750, and then dividing the rest equally among all the other major league ball players.

There have been worse propositions than this put up in baseball, and it might be a good one for the ball players to ponder over. There are many men now who have been a great credit to it, who are down and out and just managing to make a living.

"I think that the players proceeds of the world's series should go to some players' benevolent order that would look after the worthy indigent of the national pastime," said Jones. "If they feel like rewarding the two winning clubs, as Herrmann suggests that is all right, but I believe the rest of the money should be devoted to a players' fund, instead of being parceled among the other players of the two leagues. Why should high salaried players like Cobb and Wagner and Lajoie be given money that they do not earn? They each earn more than any of our congressmen and work only six months a year for it.

"If Herrmann and the other members of the National commission and the directors of the National and American leagues want to promote the betterment of the game, they might think this over. There are hundreds of ball players who were not so provident as some of the fellows who now own automobiles and fracture the speed laws, but they were just as great diamond idols in their days."

ALLEN SHOWS AN ADVANCED ISSUE

MARION IS WAY DOWN

Allen is one of the few big counties in the state of Indiana that show an increase in the number of hunting licenses issued up to December 1, of this year, and George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, declares that the falling off in the total from that of last year at that date was a fitting answer to persons in Indiana who have sought a "closed season" for all game for a period of five years.

The total number of licenses issued this year up to Dec. 1 was 27,463, while last year the total at Dec. 1 was 36,425. Because the winter last year was unusually severe and was followed by much wet weather in the spring Mr. Miles said there has been a dearth of quails. The same conditions would have prevailed whether there was a closed season in effect or not, he said, and then he declared that Indiana "grows" more quails each year than are killed by sportsmen under the present laws. The dearth of game will result in a loss to the state treasury and the fish and game department of approximately $11,000, it is believed. The passage of a closed season law would wipe out the entire revenue of the state department, though the department would have to be kept intact, it is conceded.

That the present game laws are working admirably, and that there is no danger of a quail famine in Indiana, as far as causes other than natural ones are concerned, was declared by the state commissioner as his belief.

His report showed the comparative number of licenses at $1 each issued in each county to December 1, 1911, and from that date to the same date this year. The largest amounts follow:

| Counties. | 1911. | 1912. |

NEVER OFFERED CONTRACT.

Ty Cobb Says He Can Not Be Classed as a Hold Out.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—Detroit correspondents in Washington nailed Ty Cobb on his arrival there yesterday and inquired about his reported holdout for $15,000. "As far as being a holdout, that is untrue," he said. "How can I be a holdout when I have not been offered a contract. I never have told anybody what I wanted in the matter of salary. Mr. Navin and I had a short talk last fall. Since then I have had no communication with the club, either written or oral. I am leaving the whole business to Mr. Navin and feel confident that when he sends me a contract to sign the Detroit club will do the square thing."

FIELDER JONES IS REGARDED AS THE RICHEST OF THE PLAYERS WHO HAVE RETIRED FROM BASE BALL.

BREAKS MY HEART
OH JONESY
AFTER YOU MY DEAR BILL
PARLOR WORK
HE WAS A GREAT FIELDER AND A GENTLEMAN
WHEN JONES QUIT THE FANS LOST A REAL IDOL
SOX
FIELDER JONES
HE DEFEATED THE CUBS IN THE WORLD'S SERIES OF 1906
THAT'S WHERE HE WAS BORN
HE WAS BORN AT SHINGLE HOUSE PA WHICH HAS BEEN ON THE MAP EVER SINCE
HE IS A LUMBER BARON NOW AND WEARS A BUNCH OF SHINGLES FOR A WATCH FOB

When the fans think of Fielder Jones they think of the manager of the "hitless wonders" of the American league—the Chicago White Sox which won a world's championship from Frank Chance's Cubs.

Or, if they peruse the sport page closely they may know him as president of the Northwestern league and an Oregon lumber king.

Fielder Jones is considered the wealthiest ex-ball player living. He made a fortune in baseball, because Charley Comiskey believes in playing men who deliver the goods, and Jones invested wisely, so that he was able to refuse an offer of $15,000 a year to manage a major league club. He'd have taken the offer if the owner had agreed to sell him a large block of the club stock.

But who remembers Fielder A. Jones as the work of Ned Hanlon, daddy of pennant winning managers?

Fielder Jones was a good ball player when he broke into the majors in 1896, with Brooklyn. Hanlon made him a better one. He brought out of the youngster everything he possessed.

Fielder Jones lived up to his name. He was a fielder of the Jimmy McAleer and Walter Brodie type. And that's the last word in baseball. He had everything that goes to make up a ball player, a gentleman and a great leader. He was fast, could hit, and his fielding was marvelous.

When Jones quit to enter the lumber business in 1908, baseball lost an idol. Comiskey, it is said, handed Jones a blank, signed contract and told him to name his own figure to lead the team, but the Old Roman refused to part with stock, so Fielder, like Bill Lange, quit.

President F. A. Jones, of the Northwestern league, lives in Portland, Ore., with offices in the chamber of commerce building. He also handles his immense lumber interests from this office.

In 1899 Brooklyn won the pennant and repeated in 1900. In '99 Jones, in 95 games, fielded .946 and batted .286; in 1900 he fielded .966 and batted .309 for 36 games.

Jones saw a fat contract when the American league began raiding the National in 1901, and jumped to the Johnson organization.

He went to Chicago, and Chicago won the pennant that year. In 133 games Fielder batted .325. He also scored 119 runs, a little less than a run per game; he fielded .938.

In 1906 Jones was manager of the White Sox. He won the American league pennant and did the unexpected when he led the Sox to victory over the Cubs, in the world's series.

That year Jones led all league outfielders, with an average of .938, for 144 games and hit but .230. Winning the big series gave Jones about all there was in it for a player-manager, and he turned his attention to the lumber business.

As records stand, Jones holds second place among all fielders with his .938 averages in 1903 and 1905. Harry Bay, in 1904, topped him by two points.

Jones refuses to name the greatest player, but unhesitatingly pronounces Ed Walsh the greatest of pitchers. And those who appreciate the work the "Big Moose" has done for the Sox can realize how Jones feels.

Jones began his career at Binghampton, N. Y., in 1896, and was with Springfield next, and with Brooklyn from 1896 to 1900. From 1901 to 1908 he was with the White Sox. This is his baseball career of 14 years.

He was born at Single House Pa., which has been on the map ever since its favorite son downed the Cubs. He was born August 13, 1871, so he is 41.

Jones says that he believes baseball is improving all the time.

BODE LEADS THE SEMINARY HOSTS

Manager of Last Season Will Play Against Concordia Team.

GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Bode, manager last season for the Concordia college team and a fast and scrappy player, will lead the charge of the Seminary five on the local squad at the college gymnasium on Saturday night.

His club will consist of players who have been seen here in former years and all of them made such enviable reputations in sustaining the standing of Concordia that the varsity five of this season will have a tough battle on its hands when it meets the St. Louis Seminarians.

Wambsganss, Schmidt, Sauer and Wiese will be in the game and the former will be watched with interest as he is a local boy and was of great assistance to his college club of last year. Schmidt and Sauer played here on the club of two years ago.

The seminarians will be on their vacation trips and as their routes home lie in this direction they will stop off for a game against the students here who have been battling all year for the honor and glory in athletics of the college.

Manager Claus is out for a record. In former years it has been little trouble for the seminary five to trim the students here and it remains for the present club to break this list of defeats. On the other hand the seminary team would feel deeply humiliated if it should be beaten in this game so it is bound to be a battle even if the two clubs do represent one cause.

SOLD JOE TINKER FOR $3.

Joe Tinker, Cincinnati's new manager, once sold for $3.

Of course that was in the way back days of his career. It was right at the start. Joe was playing shortstop for a semi-professional team in Kansas City in 1897. Another semi-professional team wanted him and offered $3. The offer was taken up so quickly the manager who made it believed he must be stung.

Tinker has a lot to show for his long service in the National league. He owns a large tract of Oregon fruit land, a fine home in Chicago, several pieces of real estate in Kansas City, a big automobile and a big bank account.

In the second league the Eclipse beat the Brunswicks three straight with Garber and Dunn the high bowlers. The scores:

KNOCKED IT OUT OF LOT.

What is declared by such veterans as Dan Brouthers and Mike Tierman to have been the longest hit in the history of baseball, was made off Rube Marquard by Hans Wagner at the Polo grounds in New York one day last summer.

Here is what Marquard has to say of the hit:

"It was the longest hit I ever saw. I was trying to waste a ball on the Dutchman, and I shot it two feet above his head. But Hans reached it with his mighty club and knocked the ball over the elevated railroad structure on the other side of our left field fence."

SAYS THREE ARE IN CLASS ALONE

Fred Clarke Picks Trio of World-Beaters in His Pirates.

GET AWAY WITH IT

Manager Fred Clarke claims his Pittsburg Pirates include three players each of whom is unsurpassed in his own field of fame.

The three are Hans Wagner, the greatest shortstop; Marty O'Toole, the $22,500 pitcher, who is the most expensive ball player, and Walter Rehg, the freshest minor leaguer that ever broke into the big show. This story has to do with Rehg.

Rehg started last spring with the Pirates. He was farmed to St. Paul, but has been recalled.

Rehg has sassed everybody, and always got away with it.

The first time he faced a big league pitcher, batting for another Pirate, Umpire Billy Klem asked him who he was batting for.

"Myself," said Rehg.

Klem insisted on knowing his name, and then asked how it was spelled.

"You don't spell it," replied Rehg. "You whistle it."

In a game in Boston Mike Donlin was peeved because Max Carey missed the hit and run sign from Mike, causing Mike to miss a bit.

"Gee whizz!" complained Mike on the bench. "I don't know what was the matter with Carey. Why, everybody in the park except Max got the sign."

"Sure they did, and a fellow outside the park got it, too," cut in Rehg. "See that fellow," and he pointed to a sign painter on a scaffold. "He got it and is painting it."

1832 CLUB SURVIVORS DINE.

Unique Wabash Organization's Membership Dwindles to Four.

Wabash, Ind., Dec. 19.—The four surviving members of the 1832 club, all of whom were born in that year, held their annual meeting here today, when they enjoyed a dinner at the home of H. B. Laselle. The club was organized twenty-five years ago and at that time had a large membership. The members of this unique organization still living are R. F. Mitten, Thomas Mote, H. B. Laselle and Mrs. Kirby Davis.

JOHNSON NEVER KICKS.

The most popular ball player among umpires is Walter Johnson. There is not a single instance on record since Johnson broke into the American league when he has objected to a decision. There are times, of course, when umpires err when a decision means much, but Johnson has never been known to make a protest. In this respect he differs from nearly all pitchers.

HOME BOYS WILL ROOT FOR ENEMY

Number of Students Coming With Rensellaer Basket Ball Club.

STRONGEST ON LIST

Under ordinary circumstances when home talent roots for an opposing team, no matter whether it is baseball, basket ball, foot ball or any other kind of a game, it is called les majeste or words to that effect.

However, when the basket ball team from St. Joseph's college at Rensselaer appears against St. Mary's Athletics at Odeon hall tomorrow night there will be a lot of boys in the audience who will pull hard for the visitors to win out and they will not be called knockers either.

These rooters for the enemy are Fort Wayne boys who are attending the college that will supply the opposition and they are naturally anxious to see their club win and they will do all they can to help it along. There is nothing like a little encouragement from the audience and even though it is done through the medium of an ear-splitting sizz, sizz, boom, bah, it helps.

There are no Fort Wayne boys on the college ball team but there are some very active supporters and they are coming along. Manager Clarence Alter has been led to believe that the club that is coming for the game tomorrow night is the strongest he has put on this season and he really hopes so because the local basket ballers have played runaway contests so far and have never found out just where the team is weak.

Professor Louis, alias "Louie" Pell will probably be on the job in the college battle. If he gets in it will be his first game of the present season and if he plays anything like the brand of basket ball he played last season he will aid his club very materially.

St. Mary's seconds are looking for a foe to meet them in the curtain raising conflict.

GRIFFITH PICKS BEST BALL TEAM

MILAN HEADS BATTING

Manager Clark Griffith, of the Washington Nationals, has once more put himself in the limelight. This time Griff has picked an all-star baseball team which, he claims, is the strongest team that could be picked from the 1912 big leaguers. Griff adopted a rational way of making his selections, one that will appeal to many fans. He applied it particularly to Larry Doyle, his selection for second base.

Said Griff: "Doyle looks to me to be the best among the second basemen, but in handing him the job you have almost to give a woman's reason—'Because.' You know he's the best, but it's hard to explain why."

Here is Griffith's all-star batting order:

Milan, outfield.
Chase, first base.
Cobb, outfield.
Wagner (Hans), shortstop.
Doyle, second base.
Baker, third base.
Speaker, outfield.
Henry, catcher.
Johnson, pitcher.

"That ball team," says Griffith, "is in my opinion the best that could be put together if I had my pick of all the players in the two major leagues. My other pitchers would be Walsh and Wood from the American league, and Rucker from the National league. My other catchers would be Chief Meyers and Bresnahan. For a utility infielder I would prefer Zimmerman of the Cubs, and Sam Crawford of the Tigers, as utility outfielder. Then I would feel awful sorry for any team that had to go up against a lineup like that."

STARTS RACE TO MARRIAGE ALTAR

Divorce Law Decision in Illinois Causes Tremendous Furore.

MANY TO WED AGAIN

Chicago, Dec. 19.—To avoid a situation threatening personal respectability, property rights and even the legitimacy of children thousands of divorced persons, who have remarried within the prohibited period of one year are expected within the next few weeks to make new trips to the altar.

The impending rush for new marriage certificates follows a ruling of the Illinois supreme court that marriages of divorced persons, contracted within a year after separation, are invalid. Remarriage when a year or more has elapsed after divorce is the only loophole of escape.

Many hundreds of couples in Chicago and elswhere in the state have ignored the prohibition of the statute.

It was a gloomy picture the supreme court, by its decision, and Chicago judges by their interpretation of the ruling, drew of the situation yesterday.

Effect of Court Ruling.

The position of divorced persons remarried within a year is outlined as follows by the supreme court and judges of lower courts:

Persons living under interdicted ties, even if contracted in another state, are practically in a state of adultery, no marriage existing, and the ties will not be recognized in Illinois courts.

Neither party to the marriage has any property claim upon the other.

Legitimacy of children is liable to be matter of debate in connection with wills and estates.

Voluntary exile from Illinois, in other states or in foreign countries, does not give strength to property rights in Illinois.

Judge Adelor J. Petit asserted that he had held illegal many marriages of divorced persons performed within a year and that he had punished some who violated the law.

Judge Gibbons Lenient.

Judge John Gibbons has taken similar action in cases brought before him, but has been inclined to be lenient, owing to his belief that lawyers have mistakenly advised clients that marriages outside the state within the year are legal.

Judge Gemmill, of the court of domestic relations, declared that consideration should be shown innocent parties to such marriages, and cited cases in which men arrested for offenses against their wives had escaped deserved punishment by setting up the illegality of their marriages.

LOVE GOD PLEADS FOR MAN'S PARDON

Daughter Will Not Marry Till Her Father is Out of Prison.

FIANCE AIDS HER

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 19.—A remarkable story of tragedy and romance, involving the freedom of a modern Jean Valjean and the love of his beautiful daughter, is disclosed in a petition for pardon now being considered by Governor Brown, details of which became known here.

The plea is the most unusual that ever came before the chief executive of this state. It asks for the liberation of Thomas Edgar Stripling, alias R. E. Morris, who is serving a life term in the Georgia penitentiary for killing a man who insulted his sister fifteen years ago.

Freedom of Stripling is asked that his daughter may become the bride of E. T. Bloodgood, a prominent and prosperous young man of Tallulah Falls, Ga.

Mr. Bloodgood is the petitioner. His appeal to the governor is based on a vow taken many years ago by his fiancee, Miss Ruth May Stripling, that she never would give her hand in marriage as long as her father wore prison stripes.

This proud young woman, robbed of a father's companionship, because of a slur cast upon the name of her aunt, resides in the Stripling home, in Danville, Va. She spent many years in an effort to gain the freedom of her parent. The petition now in the hands of Governor Brown is the second that has been urged upon him in behalf of Stripling. Several years ago a powerful appeal was made for the liberation of this prisoner, but the governor could not see fit to grant the plea.

Miss Stripling took a most important part in the effort to free her father. In the meantime she was admired and courted by many young men and received numerous proposals of marriage, all of which she rejected.

When the first petition for Stripling was vetoed by the governor the daughter declared with emphasis:

"I shall never be married until I have won freedom for my father."

How well she has kept that pledge and intends to adhere to it is told in the appeal her fiance is making for her convicted father at this time. Whether the new argument of a girl's love and happiness may have weight with the govehnor cannot now be known, but the mere fact that Mr. Youngblood's plea has not been rejected gives hope to the eager couple to whom this means so much.

Thousands have signed petitions asking the pardon of Stripling, and this fact may in some measure help to influence Governor Brown in favor of clemency at this time.

Many Virginians will remember the sensation caused by the arrest in Danville ten years ago of Stripling. He was then just in the prime of young manhood and was chief of police of that city. Not long previous to that time he appeared in the Virginia city with his little famly. No one knew whence he came or what his antecedents. He entered business in Danville and soon involuntarily had drifted into local politics. In a few years he was chosen chief of police, an eminence which was to spell his downfall.

When he was arrested on the charge of murder hundreds of friends rushed to his rescue, refusing to believe he could have been guilty of such a crime until he confessed he was a slayer.

The story of his trial, capture, conviction and of his entering upon a term of imprisonment for life filled the newspapers. While sympathy of the public was almost entirely on his side, the manner in which Stripling had executed vengeance upon the insulter of his sister did not meet with approval of southern men and women.

Fifteen years ago Stripling killed William J. Cornett, a neighbor, in Muskogee county, Georgia, for an offensive remark about his sister, a married woman. Cornett was shot to death through a window of his home when he was preparing for bed. Stripling was at once suspected and was arrested.

When he was placed on trial and went on the witness stand in his own behalf he pleaded that he was justified in killing Cornett, because Cornett was known as a desperate character and had threatened to shoot him on sight. Had he met Cornett in the street and killed him, giving his adversary a semblance of a chance for his life, he undoubtedly would have gone free. But even a Georgia jury could not hold guiltless a man who slew another from ambush. Stripling, soon after his conviction, escaped from prison and fled to Danville, where he began life anew under the name of Morris. However, detectives hunted him down and brought him back to Georgia, where he again was thrown into prison to expiate his crime.

Stamp clerks at the Fort Wayne postoffice declare that the annual Christmas rush is really in progress. They say it started in earnest today, when for the first time this season it was necessary to form a line about the lobby of the federal building, leading up to the stamp window.

Beginning about 9 o'clock this morning stamp trade became unusually active and by noon a line of twenty-five or more in number had formed in the western section of the lobby. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the line was still increasing and the first floor of the postoffice building was filled to capacity with eager shoppers, anxious to complete their work of mailing Christmas presents.

GIRL HUNTS FOX FOR SET OF FURS

Young Woman Prompted by Fashion Becomes Skilful.

BAGS 25 IN ONE YEAR

Quincy, Mass., Dec. 19.—Quincy owns to the youngest and perhaps the most successful woman fox hunter in the country. Her name is Helen B. Elcock, and she is still a couple of years on the near side of twenty.

Last year twenty-four red and one black fox fell victims to her skill with the rifle, and she has started out this season with the avowed intention of bettering this record.

It all came about in a curious way. Miss Elcock, like any other girl, longed to be the owner of a set of real, sure enough furs. Her father jokingly suggested that the easiest and quickest way for her to get the coveted articles would be to go out and collect her own skins. He also offered to take her along on one of his hunting trips, being an ardent fox hunter himself.

Miss Elcock needed no second invitation. Dressed in regulation hunting costume and armed with a repeating rifle, she started off with her father and his pack of hounds.

The result of her first hunt was two fine pelts, and subsequent trips, some of them made alone, brought the season's total up to twenty-five.

Her fox skins, which she proudly exhibits, have brought huntsmen from all over the state to view her trophies. After her exceptional success Miss Elcock decided that she would keep her fox skins for exhibition instead of having them made into garments.

Miss Elcock's skill with the rifle is considered remarkable, as she has never been known to miss a fox when a fair target was offered. She also is a crack shot with a revolver.

She now has her own pack of fourteen thoroughbred foxhounds.

On one occasion Miss Elcock captured alive a baby fox, which she took home with her. It is now a sturdy little creature and follows its owner like a dog. It never makes any attempt to escape, although allowed almost complete freedom.

In speaking of her hunting trips Miss Elcock grows enthusiastic. "The outdoor life is simply splendid," she says. "Getting up at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning and going out after foxes may sound like pretty hard work to most people, but to me it is so much play. The fresh air and exercise are great health builders. I used to be considered frail, but now I never know what it is to be ill."

Miss Elcock has almost as great a record as a snake killer as a fox hunter. Last year she killed scores of rattlers, the largest being 4 feet 8 inches in length and bearing fourteen rattles.

Has Right Hand Cut and Finger Broken While at Work in Yards.

Supt. J. C. Sullivan appeared at the Wabash depot at noon today, just in time to relieve from anxiety a lot of stranded laborers, who had been sent to New Haven, where they were told there was no work for them. The party came up here afoot and took possession of a portion of the waiting room at the depot, where Mr. Sullivan found them and sent a messenger to conduct them to one of the laboring camps, where they will be put at work ballasting the road. In this party were thirteen men, of nearly that many nationalities. They had been hired in Chicago and given transportation to New Haven, when they should have been sent directly to this city. Another party of about eighteen came up from St. Louis on the early morning train also, but they were taken care of and caused no trouble.

HAVE REACHED THE LIMIT.

Reports Say Freight Cars Will Be No Larger.

F. A. Layman, writing for the Pittsburg Post, says that Pittsburg operating experts declare that freight cars have reached the limit of weight and capacity. Continuing, Mr. Layman says: "During the last two decades the weight and capacity of box cars have been increased gradually until, today, the average capacity of a modern car is 100,000 pounds; but since the box car may be loaded to 10 per cent in excess of its capacity, commonly they are carrying loads of 110,000 pounds each, to which enormous weight must be added the weight of the car itself, which will average 40,000, making a total of 150,000 pounds for each car entering into the makeup of the modern freight train. And this, the expert in question claims is the greatest strain present-day tracks and bridges will stand. To increase the weight of the freight car of today, therefore, would necessitate the expenditure of enormous sums of money for heavier rails and stronger bridges.

"In order to carry the stupendous weight of modern equipment which has come into general use through the introduction of steel cars and locomotives of the monster Pacific type, the roads that have adopted them have been obliged to substitute the 100-pound rail for the 85 and 90-pound rail formerly used, while bridges have had to be strengthened to bear the strain of the greatly increased weights. And in this particular the several railroads operating into Pittsburg have not been backward, particularly the Bessemer and the Pennsylvania.

"In this connection, it is noteworthy that the fact that freight equipment has reached the limit of weight and capacity was the result of a schoolboy's curiosity. The lad in question made the discovery that a freight car is not so wide as a passenger car by full two fee and pondered over the discrepancy. He figured to his own satisfaction that wider freight cars would be of inestimable value to the railroads and submitted his deductions to an acquaintance in the passenger traffic department of one of the Pittsburg initial lines, but who declared it to be extrajudicial, insofar as he was concerned and referred it, in turn, to the freight traffic department, which, after serious consideration, decided that every roadbed in the country would have to be rebuilt should the capacity of the largest car in equipment be further increased.

"A modern engine of the Mikado type of locomotive has several times the weight of a loaded freight car, but the engine is longer and the weight is spread over more territory. Again, in the case of a passenger car, the weight is better distributed and it cannot when loaded to its capacity reach the weight of a loaded box car. A passenger coach is made longer than a freight car and rests upon trucks of six wheels. A freight car could not be made this width or length. It requires more supports or sills to hold the weight to which it is subjected. The inside width of a wooden passenger coach is 9 feet. The standard box car inside measurement is 8 feet 4 inches. The steel passenger cars have increased the weight of the passenger train to a point where an engine cannot haul more than eight or nine cars. The width of a steel coach is 9 feet 6 inches and these cars have also reached the limit for safe and speedy travel without running double-header engines."

Albert Koons Has Hand Cut and Finger Broken.

Albert Koons, a Pennsylvania yard brakeman, had his right hand badly cut and one of the fingers broken this morning at 3:45 o'clock while at work switching cars at the freight yards. He was sent to St. Joseph hospital, where the company surgeon is attending him.

BETWEEN THESE TWO GIRLS THEATRE MAGNATE HAS A HEAP O' TROUBLE.

A. L. ERLANGER, ELPHYE SNOWDON (ON LEFT) AND EDITH ST. CLAIR

Abraham L. Erlanger, head of the "theatrical trust of America, will have to pay $22,500 to Edith St. Clair, a young and pretty actress, if the verdict of a New York jury is not overruled. The trial has been very interesting for New York and very embarrassing for Mr. Erlanger.

Miss St. Clair testified that Erlanger had agreed to pay her $75 a week "for her entire lifetime," and that later he rescinded this contract, but gave her another calling for the payment of $25,000 in ten annual installments. After one payment, he failed to keep the agreement. The jury agreed with her.

Miss St. Clair further explained that all her trouble with Mr. Erlanger was due to another actress, Elphye Snowdon, who was "jealous of her," and of whom Mr. Erlanger became very fond. Erlanger insists that he was blackmailed, and says he signed the contract to save annoyance to his wife who was ill at the time, and who afterwards divorced him.

NOW RAILROADS WANT MORE PAY

Parcels Post Will Mean a Heavy Loss to Roads, Say Officials.

AT PRESENT BASIS

Washington, Dec. 19.—The railroads of the country will not carry out a threat of refusing to haul parcels post packages which weigh in excess of four pounds. While four pounds now is the limit of the weight of packages the railroads are required to carry under their contracts with the government, it develops that the railroads, through a committee, merely have protested that the mail pay allowed them should be increased under a new weighing to be made after the parcels post law becomes operative.

A committee representing the railroads, consisting of W. A. Worthington, assistant director of operations of the Harriman lines; Ralph Peters, president of the Long Island railroad and chairman of the committee on railroad pay of the American Association of Railroads; E. J. Pearson, first vice president of the Missouri Pacific; George T. Nicholson, first vice president of the Santa Fe; E. G. Buckland, vice president of the New Haven; Charles A. Wickersham, president of the Western Railroad of Alabama; W. W. Baldwin, vice president of the Burlington, and C. F. Daly, vice president of the New York Central, has presented to Chairman Moon of the house committee on postoffices the plea of the railroads for increased compensation.

It was stated by this committee that the railroads are now losing $25,000,000 a year on the present basis of compensation on the mails instead of receiving $9,000,000 too much, as is claimed by Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart.

This loss, the railroad men said, will be materially increased when the railroads are called on to carry parcels post packages up to eleven pounds in weight. All the railroads request, they explained, is that a new weighing of the mails be ordered after the parcels post law becomes operative and that the railroads be allowed a new rating on that weighing.

It is not likely that the house committee will anticipate the action of the new commission on railroad mail pay, but it is expected that the report of that commission will be awaited before any action is taken. It is thought that a weighing of the mails will be ordered when it is possible to measure the increased volume of business created by the parcels post law.

WILL CARLETON DEAD.

Well Known Poet Succumbs to Pneumonia in Brooklyn.

New York, Dec. 19.—Will Carleton, poet, newspaper man and lecturer, died at his home in Brooklyn last night of pneumonia, after a short illness.

Mr. Carleton was born in Hudson, Mich., in 1845. He attended Hillsdale college, Mich., and during his junior year wrote a political poem entitled "Fax," which he delivered at a town meeting and won local fame, which soon gained for him a place as a lyceum speaker. In 1870 he became editor of the Detroit Tribune and a year later published his first book of poems.

"Over the Hills to the Poor House" was the best known of his earlier works. In 1884 Mr. Carleton moved to Brooklyn and for a number of years he had been editor of an illustrated magazine. From 1873 to 1890 he wrote many poems of farm and city life and traveled extensively as a lecturer. Mr. Carleton was married in 1881 to Miss Adora N. Niles.

NOEL TRAINS HIS FIRE ON HOCKIN

Attorney Scores "the Iago" of the Dynamite Conspiracy.

TOLD MANY STORIES

Indianapolis, Dec. 19.—Stories which the government charges Herbert S. Hockin told while acting as "the Iago of the dynamite conspiracy" were related by Special Assistant District Attorney James W. Noel in continuing his argument to the jury at the trial of the forty accused "bomb plotters" today.

"In betraying all with whom he had to deal, Hockin never told the same story twice," said Mr. Noel. "He told a Pittsburg contractor about a hiding place for nitroglycerin because he (Hockin) was opposed to wholesale murder and the explosive was to be used to blow up a passenger train.

"He told W. J. Burns he was giving information about explosions because he (Hockin) was afraid McNamara was ruining the Iron Workers' union. Still, this man, the Iago of the conspiracy, whispering a different story in each new ear, was one of the originators of the scheme to blow up non-union jobs by dynamite. He was ambitious and wanted to get out of the way those who were opposed to him. Ortie E. McManigal and J. B. McNamara had complained that Hockin was withholding part of the $200 fee allowed for each explosion. The dynamiters were about to ditch him, so Hockin decided to betray them."

Amounts to Nothing.

Concerning the statements of Thomas Taggart, democratic national committeeman, who testified for the defense that negotiations were in progress for unionizing the job when an explosion occurred at French Lick, Ind., Mr. Noel said to the jury:

"Mr. Taggart's testimony as showing there was no motive for blowing up the French Lick job amounts to nothing. You have seen other instances in which politicians have been appealed to on behalf of these defendants. Thomas Kearns, of Salt Lake City, a former United States senator, came here to testify that the reputation of J. E. Munsey was good. This is the Munsey who for two weeks harbored J. B. McNamara in Salt Lake City after McNamara had murdered twenty-one persons at Los Angeles."

LIVE AND LET LIVE.

We do not sell furniture, millinery, dry goods or clothing, nor do we do kalsomining or hang wall paper; we leave that to the respective tradesmen in those lines. We believe in specialism and do not endeavor to dabble in every conceivable line of merchandise.

If we had a hundred thousand dollars, or so, we would be satisfied to live on the interest thereof. If we owned a big furniture store we would be happy with the juicy profits. If we owned a big business block we would rent it out and be content with the income derived.

Always having to work hard for a living, we never have been fortunate enough to possess any of the above; however, this is our twenty-seventh consecutive year in the toy business in Fort Wayne.

Twenty-seven years of fair and square dealing has brought me a patronage to be proud of. This season finds us with a stock second to none—ten thousand dollars' worth of toys and dolls—new, pleasing and up-to-the-minute playthings of the best material and workmanship at prices that are as reasonably consistent as a living profit will allow. Articles at prices to please the holder of the slimest purse or the fatest wallet.

Remember, I have the only original and exclusive toy store in the city. Everything on display and price marked plainly, with courteous clerks giving prompt attention to all customers.

You are welcome to call and view our wares. The proof of the pudding in this case lies in the inspection.

Cincinnati, Dec. 19.—Lee Counselman, an automobile manufacturer, of Detroit, formerly private secretary to John H. Counselman had testified that while executive secretary of the National company he had installed a "historical" room in the factory, which was used to gloom manufacturers or prospective manufacturers of competing machines. # TURKS QUIT THE PALACE IN HASTE

Refuse Information as to Significance of the Movement.

MEETING MUST WAIT

London, Dec. 19.—The peace plenipotentiaries of the Balkan allies and Turkey were in session at St. James palace today for only about three quarters of an hour. Then Reichad Pasha and Slin Pasha hurriedly left the palace and went to their hotel. They refused to give reporters any information.

It was later announced that the peace conference had adjourned until 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The Turkish delegates state they are not yet in possession of their full instructions or their new credentials which have been dispatched from Constantinople by special courier and that the conference must await the arrival and consequently adjourned. The new credentials awaited by the Turks are necessitated by changes in their instructions regarding negotiations with the Greek delegates.

May Be Settled Soon.

Whether peace is to be declared between Turkey and the Balkan allies or whether the war is to be continued is expected to be settled within forty-eight hours. In diplomatic circles in London the opinion prevails that if the thorny obstacles which are likely to present themselves at the sessions of the peace conference in St. James palace today and tomorrow can be circumvented peace will be assured.

The re-victualling of the Turkish fortress of Adrianople, on which the Turks are reported to insist as a condition to the waiving of their demand that Greece should sign the armistice, is a most troublesome point, and if the Turks maintain their attitude it will indicate that they are still firm on the subject of the retention of the fortress after the war.

It is thought here that should Turkey carry her point in regard to re-victualling the garrison of Adrianople it would imply that the possession of that fortress would ultimately remain with the Turks. As soon as the question of Greek participation in the peace conference shall have been settled, if that is possible, the demands of the allies will be unfolded and a crucial stage will have been reached when the good offices of the powers may be needed.

Without outside mediation it appears impossible now to bridge the gulf dividing the minimum demands of the allied Balkan nations and the maximum offer of the Turks, if those demands and this offer are to be accepted at their face value.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY

The Seniors of the Fort Wayne high school gave a class social affair last evening at the Odd Fellow's hall which was highly successful from every standpoint. Everyone had a good time, the attendance of the class was large, and there was fun all the time. The hall was decorated in the class colors and with an abundance of pennants and emblems. An orchestra furnished music. Progressive bunco was played. Miss Irma Poole won the prize, a high school pennant. An elaborate banquet was served at 10:30. Walter Carter, president of the class, called upon Lawrence Hallenstein to deliver the opening words and introduced Ronald Dawson, coach of the senior play, as toastmaster. Mr. Dawson delivered a short speech that was received with considerably noisy enthusiasm and other toasts were given by Stephen Ross on "Athletics," Philip Warriner, "The Caldron." At the close of the banquet everyone united in singing "We're here Because We're Here," Class pennants were given as favors. Covers at the supper were laid for one hundred and two. Much credit was given to the committee who had charge of the affair, and included Misses Evelyn Barbier, Zillah Stewart, Jaunita Carter, and Messrs. LeRoy Bradley, Walter Kronmiller, Murel Miller and George Herrman. The company dispersed as the orchestra played "Home, Sweet Home." The chaperons were Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. Barbier, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Mackwitz, Mrs. Stuart and Misses Lee and Pike of the high school faculty.

TAFT HITS BACK AT HIS ACCUSERS

Denies Playing Politics in Recent Civil Service Action.

SENDS IN A MESSAGE

Washington, Dec. 19.—President Taft today gave congress his opinion of the charge that he had been playing politics in his recent executive order putting thirty-six thousand fourth class postmasters under the civil service. The president made the counter charge that his accusers on the floor of the house were telling "untruths" and declared that he deeply regretted the failure of congress to pass legislation which practically would destroy the "spoils system."

"Criticism has been made of this order on the ground that the motive was political," said the president.

"Nothing could be further from the truth. The order was made before the election and in the interest of efficient public service. I have several times requested congress to give me authority to put first, second and third class postmasters and all other local officers, including internal revenue officers, customs officers, United States marshals and the local agents of the other departments under the classification of the civil service law by taking away the necessity of confirming such appointments by the senate. I deeply regret the failure of congress to follow these recommendations. The change would have taken out of politics practically every local office and would have entirely cured the evils growing out of what, under the present law, must always remain a remnant of the "spoils system."

Favors New Legislation.

The president's advice to congress was contained in his third message of the year, sent in today. It was devoted largely to a review of the accomplishments of several government departments not touched upon in previous messages and to recommendations for legislation. The president advocated:

Legislation which would permit members of the cabinet to sit in either house of congress, with the right to enter into debate and answer questions, but without a vote. The adoption of the postmaster general's plan for a readjustment of compensation to railways carrying mails especially in view of the conditions which will exist under the parcels post law.

A revision of the land laws to secure prepore conservation and at the same time assure prompt disposition of land that should be turned over to provide ownership.

Legislation affecting Alaska, which would provide for leases of coal lands aand in respect to mining claims, the disposition of oil, phosphate and potash lands in the United States.

An act of congress which would legalize a court authorized to review decisions on the pure food law, such as are now made by the Remsen board.

Need Tribunal of Appeal.

In this connection the president approved the creation of the Remsen board by former President Roosevelt, but said the time had come for congress to recognize the necessity for "a tribunal of appeal" in pure food cases.

"While we are struggling to suppress an evil of great proportions like that of impure food," said the president, "we must provide the machinery in the law itself to prevent its becoming an instrument of oppression, aand we ought to enable those whose business is threatened with annihilation to have some form of appeal in which they have a complete day in court."

The president closed his message with a recommendation that congress appropriate for a government building at the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco and for the beautification of Washington. In his discussion of the capital he said that a public utilities commission was needed. The president expressed opposition to the granting of the elective franchise to citizens of Washington and endorsed the plan of the commission of fine arts for city improvement.

BOY, 11, SERVING FIFTY YEAR TERM

Youthful Matricide Patiently Going Through Prison.

IS KEPT TO HIMSELF

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 19.—James Whittaker, scarcely 11 years old, is serving a term of from ten to fifty years in the Idaho state penitentiary for the murder of his mother. Clad in the regulation prison garb of a striped suit made with knee trousers, the child is confined not far from the cell of Harry Orchard.

The young convict is not allowed to associate with the convicts in the prison yards, but is kept in the library, where, under the direction of the warden and the librarian, the little fellow daily studies and recites his lessons in much the same manner as he did before he was taken from the school room. The librarian, who is known as a "trusty," is the only prisoner with whom the boy is permitted to associate.

Whittaker has been a prisoner at the institution only two months, but he has unusual privileges. Although Bertillon measurements have been taken and he has been photographed and numbered "1949," the warden and the guards do not believe for a moment that the boy prisoner will try to escape. The ordinary prisoner must have served the greater part of his sentence before receiving the freedom of the prison ground outside the walls, but Whittaker's case is a singular one, and when the boy is not studying or reciting his lessons, he may be seen about the outside of the walls playing hide and seek with the warden's children or amusing himself by teasing the bloodhounds.

Not every liberty has been granted to the boy, however for promptly at five o'clock, when the gong sounds, he files through the great iron gateway. In a clear, shill voice he gives his number to the turnkey, who counts him as one among the 260 prisoners.

Young Whittaker, in August, 1912, shot and instantly killed his mother on a ranch near Sarilda, Fremont county. The mother was doing the family washing. She did not have sufficient strength with which to turn the wringer. She asked her son to help her. He refused. His father spanked him and ordered him to do the work. Shortly afterward she left the house. When she returned the child had procured his father's shotgun. Without saying a word he pointed the weapon at his mother and fired.

Specialists believe that the child's mind is unbalanced, although at all times he appears to be rational.

What is considered the strangest feature of the case is that the boy shows absolutely no feeling of remorse for having killed his mother.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Ruth Schulteis, aged 16 years, of 1535 West Main street, was reported ill with scarlet fever today and the family has been quarantined.

MAY QUARANTINE FOR SORE THROAT

Chicago Health Department Gives Malady Terrible Name.

HOW TO DETECT IT

Chicago, Dec. 19.—There is pain when swallowing food?

A muscular soreness appears about the throat and chest, accompanied by a dull headache and nausea?

Discovered! ! !

That is nothing more than "streptococcus sore throat," and the patient should be quarantined before he gives his disease to neighbors and friends.

The contagious nature of this disease, which is commonly known as "septic sore throat," was made known by a bulletin issued by the health department, and physicians are warned to report all such cases to the bureau of health in order that the patients may be listed in the records of the department.

Must Be Reported.

"The commissioner of health hereby declares 'streptococcus sore throat' a contagious disease which must be reported within twenty-four hours after discovery," reads the bulletin.

Those few words are expected to restrain it for quite a period, to translate a colloquailism.

"A year ago Chicago had an epidemic of streptococcus sore throat, approximately 10,000 persons becoming infected within a short time," adds the bulletin. "At this time this disease was not reportable, and as a result the department was not apprised of the situation until it was fully developed.

"It is to prevent a recurrence of this epidemic that the disease is now made reportable."

How It Feels.

Clinical features enabling one to detect this peculiar brand of sore throat are summed up in the bulletin as follows:

Onset usually abrupt.
General muscular soreness.
Dull headache.
Nausea and vomiting in some cases.
Diffuse congestion of throat, causing pain when swallowing.
Fever, subsiding in two or three days.
Cervical glands usually enlarged and tender.

Pleas for better theater ventilation and for better heating of street cars also were made in the bulletin.

The report shows that on Dec. 13 there were 1,064 cases of contagious disease in the city, as against 753 for the same week last year.

CROUPY COUGHS AND WHEEZY COLDS.

The quickest, simplest way to rid the children of dangerous croupy coughs and wheezy stuffy colds is to give them Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It gives almost instant relief and stops a cough promptly. It soothes and heals. Contains no opiates. H. L. Blomquist, Esdaile, Wis., says: "My wife considers Foley's Honey and Tar Compound the best cough cure and it gives the best results." Dreier Drug.—Adv.

DOG BISCUIT WAS NO JOKE TO GIRL

Guest at Bridge Party Sues Hostess for Broken Tooth.

AFTER A LUNCHEON

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 19.—Miss Harriett Condon of 4927 Burbans avenue at the conclusion of a bridge party in her home a few days ago served lemonade and cake to her guests.

Miss Helene Wenton of 593 East Thirty-sixth street, Paterson, was one of the guests. She took a piece of supposed cake from the dish and tried to bite it. It resisted bitterly.

"Stale," said Miss Wenton to herself, but being polite decided not to comment, for she and Miss Condon were intimate friends.

Making herself a martyr she consumed the whole thing. Then a laugh broke from the young women around her.

"You were fooled that time, Helene," they chuckled. "That was a dog biscuit you ate."

Miss Weston, in no joyous mood, rose indignantly, got her hat and coat and hurried from the house. On Saturday she began suit for $35 against Miss Condon, alleging that the dog biscuit had broken one tooth, dislodged a gold filling in another and had so otherwise injured her that the dentist's bill was $35.

"No one in this city has a keener sense of humor than I," said Miss Wenton, "but I can't see anything particularly ludicrous in serving dog cakes to friends at luncheon. Furthermore, I was humiliated."

"It was just a little joke we decided to play on Helene, and I am surprised she has taken it so seriously," said Miss Condon.

The suit is expected to be heard by Judge Abram Klenent in the district court of Paterson within a few days.

SERVED IN A SUIT WHILE WITH WIFE

Dinner of Man and Wife is Halted by Divorce Papers.

COURT TAKES A HAND

New York, Dec. 19.—While dining cozily with his wife in their home at 272 Seventy-fourth street, Brooklyn, William R. James, a lumber dealer, was served with an order to pay her alimony and counsel fee. The order was signed by Supreme Court Judge Aspinall. Mrs. James had asked for $40 a week alimony and $500 counsel fee. She received only $10 a week and $50 with which to compensate her lawyer.

Though Mrs. James' suit for a separation has been pending some weeks, the couple have not at any time been separated. They have continued to live together at the Seventy-fourth street address, have dined at the same table and gone to amusement places in each other's company.

"I was the most surprised man in the world," James said, "when a process server from my wife's lawyer served me with her order for alimony. I knew the matter had been argued in court, but I supposed, of course, that the order would be left at my office. Mrs. James and I were at dinner, joking about the suit, when there came a ring at the bell, and the lawyer's clerk was ushered into our presence.

"He handed me the order and walked out without a word. My wife and I were so 'fussed' for a moment we couldn't speak. Then we both laughed unrestrainedly—the best laugh we have had in months. Strictly, in confidence, I believe the suit is as good as ended."

No expression of opinion could be obtained from Mrs. James, who married the defendant Oct. 19, 1883. She alleges that since 1903 he has treated her badly, on account of his interest in another woman. Mrs. Adelaide James, daughter-in-law of the plaintiff, of 338 St. Mark's avenue, Brooklyn, stated in an affidavit that last April while stopping with her parents at Bradley Beach, N. J., she met James and his woman companion, who arrived in an automobile.

Through his attorney, William J. Smith, of 204 Montague street, Brooklyn, James denied his wife's allegations.

THE BUSY WOMAN'S DAY.

It begins early, ends late, and is full of work. She often has kidney trouble without knowing it. Her back aches, and she is tired and worn out. Sleeps poorly, is nervous, no appetite. Her bladder gives her trouble too. Foley Kidney Pills will cure all that and make her strong and well. Mrs. Lena Beyer, 12 Frederick St., Auburn, N. Y., says: "Three boxes of Foley Kidney Pills were all that were needed to make me strong and well," They are the best medicine made for kidney and bladder disorders. Try them. Dreier Drug Co.—Adv.

BRAIN PIERCED WITH HOT IRON

Hospital Authorities Amazed by the Vitality of the Lad.

HURT IN "PLAY DUEL"

New York, Dec. 10.—George Krause's brain was pierced through and through by a white-hot umbrella rod. With marvelous tenacity of life, the boy survived for thirteen days in the Lebanon Hospital. There he died unconscious as he had been, of course, from the moment his brain was penetrated.

Dr. Chalman, resident surgeon in the Lebanon Hospital, declares the case one of the most remarkable in all surgery.

The accident—if it was an accident—occured in an extraordinary way. Krausce, thirteen years old, and John Oestricher, ten years, and other boys were playing in a lot at the Southern boulevard and Wales avenue, the Bronx, on the evenng of November 25 last.

Pretended to Be Soldiers.

They built a bonfire and transforming themselves into French soldiers bivouched around the fire.

One of them found the old frame of an umbrella which they tore rod from rod. Some of the boys pretended to fight a duel and fenced with the rods; other rods were stuck in the fire for the fun of seeing them glow probably.

One of those white-hot rods penetrated young Krause's skull behind the right ear, transfixed his brain and came out on the left side of his skull. Whoever made the thrust with the rod withdrew it from the frightful wound as Krause fell senseless.

Hopeless From the First.

Dr. Kaiden took Krause to the hospital; technically, he suffered from cerebritis; acute inflamation of the brain substance, but there was not much to be done for him, as the case was hopeless; the doctors marveled that the boy survived so long.

Detectives Digillo and Hazlett of the Morrisania police station arrested Oestricher, of 838 Kelly street, the Bronx. Coroner Shongut closely questioned the boy, who said Krause had called him names. But he stoutly denied having injured Krause, whose home is at 536 Wales avenue. Oestricher was held a prisoner.

ACTRESS BETTER SAVER THAN WIFE

Club Leader Says Stage Women Are Best Business Managers.

TELLS REASONS WHY

New York, Dec. '19.—"Actresses are the best business women in the world, they make better investments and save more money than actors do, and they could teach women of other professions something about the thrifty division of a salary," said Mrs. S. Ludlow Neidlinger at the Professional Woman's league bazaar, which opened in their club rooms, 1999 Broadway. "I know what I am talking about, for I have investigated the subject carefully, and I find that where one actor invests his money to advantage ten actresses are doing the same.

"Many of the women on the stage are buying homes in the city, putting their money into farm property or building theaters, while the actors are squandering all they make. There are at least five hundred actresses who own their own little farms or country places, and in the old days few of them ever thought of providing for a dull season or the proverbial rainy day.

"An actress whose salary is $500 a week, which is the average salary paid to a leading woman, manages to put by about $100 each time she draws this generous amount. Of course, actresses have to spend a great deal on clothes. That is part of their profession. They must be fashionably gowned at all times—the public expects it, yes demands it, of their favorites, so naturally the women of the stage have larger dressmakers' and milliners' bills than other women who earn an equal salary or have the same income. But the actress is not interested in some of the other little fads which make the money fly. She does not play bridge, she does not live extravagantly and she does not care for many of the other outward evidences of luxury which her sisters not in the profession adore.

"This extravagance of women is deplorable. The housewife is no exception. She grows daily more and more reckless about her household expenditures. Instead of going to market herself she relies on the dumb waiter and the telephone.

"There are ever so many actresses supporting their actor husbands. Of course, the cleverest of all in our profession is the actress who marries a millionaire. That shows splendid business judgment."

NOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN! NEW ENGLAND IS CHASING HER FAVORITE RAILROAD BARON WITH A BIG STICK.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 19.—New England is awake at last—and very mad. Her anger is directed at one man—Charles S. Mellen.

This is a strange phenomenon. New England has long loved and revered Mellen as a great man, a public benefactor, a "typical New Englander," whose business success was an inspiring example for youth. She took him to her stony bosom and cuddled him fondly as he absorbed railroad after railroad, and when he reached out for the trolley and steamship lines she put them into his hands and smiled. He was monopolizing all New England's transportation, to be sure, but such a benevolent monopolist. And now—

Map shows the system of railroad, trolley and steamship lines controlled by Mr. Mellen

New England is chasing her darling son with a club. Chambers of commerce all over Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut are sitting up nights twisting the tail of his New Haven railroad. Legislators are introducing bills proposing everything from state ownership to the electrocution of Mellen and his board of directors.

A former president of the Boston chamber of commerce proposes, with the backing of that powerful and conservative body, that Massachusetts take the Boston and Maine from Mellen. A Connecticut attorney general is instituting criminal proceedings against the New Haven officials for recent wrecks—something never before done in that trust ridden state. The Providence Journal, the most conservative paper in New England, is calling Mr. Mellen everything from a pirate of industry to a horse thief. The smug Boston papers are taking up the cry.

And Mr. Mellen's New Haven railroad is so alarmed that it has established a $100,000 publicity fund to spend in judicious newspaper "advertising."

The United States government, too, is on Mr. Mellen's trail asking embarassing questions about the New Haven buying off the Grand Trunk, which was counted on to re-establish railroad competition in New England. But that is a mild zephyr compared to the storm New England herself is raising.

While the once suave Mellen is dodging brickbats and subpoenas, let us turn back the clock a year or two.

A delegation of Connecticut commuters filed into the outer offices of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad. They waited an hour, then were marched into the presence of President Mellen, champion jollier of the railroad world. They kicked long and loud about the service, the old cars, the delays, the exorbitant fares and many other things.

Mr. Mellen calmly gazed into the eyes of the angry patrons; calmly, without cracking a smile, he explained that the riders and the road were partners, and as partners they had to stand together. And when he had talked them into forgetting what they came for, he calmly led them to the door and sent them away in dazed contentment.

A few weeks later those patrons were paying $35 a year for their commutation tickets. Partners, you see, have to help each other; the railroad needed the money more than the passengers did. Mellen handled his employes the same way.

That "partner bunk" doesn't go any more. New England has discovered all at once that Mellen's power is not benevolent; that his control of every railroad and nearly all the trolley and steamship lines of New England is a public menace; that back of him stands J. P. Morgan with his ruthless financiering; that the service and equipment of the New Haven and its allied lines have been sacrificed to swell dividends and finance new ventures; that business is throttled; that New England needs commercial and industrial freedom, instead of the despotism of an overlord whose ambition has been to control every wheel of transportation and industry in New England.

Mellen, therefore—the suave, intellectual Bostonian, appointed by Morgan to rule New England—is on the run. He has bottled up New England, but the pressure is cracking the bottle.

Mellen may have to go. For New England is on the warpath to bust the Mellen monopoly. And New England, though slow to wrath, generally gets what she wants when she goes after it.

THIS LADY CALLS WOMEN GLUTTONS

She Declares Gluttony is Worst of Seven Big Sins

OF THE FEMALE SEX

New York, Dec. 19.—"There are seven deadly sins of which women of society are guilty," declared Mrs. Mildred Manly Easton at the Astor hotel in an address before the Life as a Fine Art club, of which she is the president. The seven feminen sins, according to Mrs. Easton, are gluttony, laziness, fear, envy, jealousy, revenge and lust.

"I place gluttony first in the list because it seems to be woman's besetting sin. We are digesting all the time. From breakfast until luncheon women digest; from luncheon until dinner they digest again, and after dinner they are digesting the greater part of the evening.

"Laziness is the next most important of our sins. Some of us are so lazy we don't know whether we are really alive or not. There are hundreds of women walking around every day more dead than alive because they are lazy really, although they think they have some fashionable ailment.

"Next comes fear," she told her audience. "Fear pinches us until we have no circulation. We grow fearful of poverty, of loneliness, of trusting any one, and we are so afraid of being seen talking with a person who is not in our set that we have developed snobs.

"Jealousy makes a woman ungracious, sour and snippy. This sin is the root of all the mean little tricks women play. Envy makes a woman sneaking. She sows it by her pinched in elbows, her sinister glance, and when envy gets a strong hold on her it ruins her claims to beauty.

"Revenge develops the dangerous woman. It makes you say to yourself when you see her, 'Beware of that creature.' Although I have included lust in the list of seven deadly sins it really isn't one of which many of us are guilty."

People who are fond of buckwheat cakes are reminded that something at least equal, if not superior, to buckwheat, is made from sorghum seed.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

1,000 BABIES AS SUICIDE REBUKE

Pittsburg Clergymen Join in Protest Against Checking Race.

MET IN THE CHURCH

Pittsburg, Dec. 19.—In the presence of of many worshipers 1,000 babies who were accompanied by their parents, were blessed at St. Paul's cathedral as a mighty protest against race suicide. The children ranged in age from a few weeks to three years.

The object of the ceremony was to bless the children and to create a greater interest in the parents for the care of the souls of the little ones. The prime object of the ceremony, as given out by the officiating priests, was to call the attention of parents to their solemn duty of bringing children into the world and rearing them in the right way.

"It is an expression of the glory of motherhood," said the Rev. Father Brown, "to see all these mothers here with their children. Christ said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me, for such is the kingdom of heaven.' He did not say that to defeat the laws of nature would be tolerated. Race suicide is a sin and heinous crime and all parents should shun it as they would a pestilence.

"Race suicide has already ruined one great country, and eventually will depopulate it, unless radical measures are taken to combat the greatest evil known in modern times. The crowning glory of woman should be to bear children, as Christ intended should be their portion."

Our American dust is certainly brought nigh to European grandeur when the highest bidder at a New York city auction sale can become the owner of a real letter of Catherine de Medico, written entirely by her own fair hand. Such links to royalty come high, however; $1,350 was the price paid for the letter at the recent Hoe sale.

According to the statement of a professor in a German university the percentage of baldness among intellectual men is only two for musical men and sixteen for writers and others.

POSTS A NOTICE HE'LL BEAT WIFE

Explains That When She Does Not Obey She Gets Whipping

GIVEN SIXTY DAYS

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 19.—An excited man sailed into police headquarters and shouted:

"Quick! Cesare Ciampo is killing his wife at 23 Charles street!"

A policeman rushed into the house. Before he entered he saw this notice, written in Italian, on a card nailed over the door:

"I will beat my wife when I please and as often as I choose, and when I am beating her there must be no interference on the part of any one."

The policeman didn't believe a word of it, so he arrested Ciampo and arraigned him before Judge Clark, who asked:

"Don't you know that it is a crime in this country to beat your wife and that I will have to send you to jail?"

"My wife told me that," replied Ciampo easily. "She said she'd send me to jail for a year, but I beat her again last night because she wouldn't wipe up the floor."

Mrs. Ciampo said her loving spouse had been very consistent in his pugilistic attentions to her for a long time.

"But my wife doesn't obey me, judge," said Ciampo, "and when she doesn't do what I tell her I just beat her."

"Sixty days for you," said the court.

ACCUSES FATHER OF AWFUL CRIME

Girl Says He Locked Home and Burned Children to Death.

CAPPS NOW IN JAIL

Fort Smith, Ark., Dec. 19.—Marion Capps, aged 35, a widower and for two years pastor of the Mazzard Prairie Methodist church, is confined in the county jail here charged with burning to death his two children, Rosie, aged 8, and Priscilla, aged 8, in their home a mile and a quarter northwest of Bonanza. The Capps home was destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and, in addition to the two fatalities, Ellis, aged 14, and Mack, aged 10, sons of Mr. Capps, were so seriously burned that it is feared they will die. A fifth child, Bertha, aged 15, was slightly burned.

Jury Accuses Capps.

The coroner's jury recommended that Capps be held to the grand jury charged with crime.

Bertha Capps swore at the inquest that her father had threatened their lives several times. She also declared that when the fire awoke her, she saw her father leave the bedroom and lock the door. Capps says the screams of the children awoke him.

The story of the surviving children is that they awakened to find their rooms in flames. They say they had been tied to their beds with a rope. Bertha told Coroner Johnston that when she released herself she found the doors of the house locked and the windows nailed. She threw herself against a window and broke the glass. In this way she and her brothers effected their escape. The boys tell the same story.

Neighbors Find Capps.

Surviving children in scanty underclothing dragged themselves to the home of W. R. Booth, a quarter of a mile away. The first persons arriving at the Capps' home found him running up and down the road yelling like a madman. With him was his daughter, Alice, aged 7, whom he had always referred to as his "favorite."

Coroner Johnston and Deputy Prosecutor Prentiss Rowe filed charges of murder against Capps. They allege he went to Bonanza last night and purchased five gallons of coal oil.

Capps was born at Pratt City, Ala., and lived there until six years ago. For two years he was pastor of the Methodist congregation at Mazzard Prairie, near here.

FLEMING'S BEER UNDER FIRE.

State Senator Explains Improper Labels on Fort Wayne Product.

Washington, Dec. 19.—State Senator Stephen B. Fleming, the Fort Wayne brewer, was before the chemistry bureau of the department of agriculture yesterday under a citation to explain why beer from his brewery has been put out under improper labels. He showed that the number of bottles marketed with the objectionable labels, which were part of an old stock on hand, was only 73,000, which is 37,000 bottles less than a single day's output. Representative Cline accompanied him before the department. The officials decided to pass the matter over to Dr. Alsberg, the newly appointed chief of the chemistry bureau for a decision.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—When a persistent masher tried to force his attentions on Miss Theresa Kaycki in front of her home, 3046 North Hamlin avenue, the young woman sank her teeth into his hand. The man wrenched his hand away and the girl fled. When she reached home she discovered two teeth were missing. She believes the molars remained imbedded in the masher's hand.

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 19.—What is thought to be the first college girls' darning and mending bureau will be established soon at the University of Missouri, if plans of the Y. W. C. A. are carried out. Miss Nellie Carter is to be in charge of the work.

It is the aim of the proposed bureau to give employment to girls who have to earn their own expenses while attending the university and at the same time furnish bachelor professors and other men competent girls to mend their clothing and darn their socks.

The idea is to have a central point to which all work can be brought and from which the young women can take as much of it as they have time for.

Hartford City, Ind., Dec. 19.—Isaiah Cortright, a Klondike gold hunter and for many years believed dead by relatives, will return to his home here Christmas. Shamberger returned a few years later, but Cortright determined to stick until he made a strike. He became ill and failure of relatives to hear from him led to the belief that he was dead. Recently a letter came from him saying that he had reached the states. His search for riches in the Klondike was a failure.

STAFF SPECIAL FROM SANTA CLAUS LAND; THE LATEST CHRISTMAS NEWS.

Sentinel Correspondent Reports Toy Factories Working Overtime—So Much to Do That the Brownies Have to Help—Mrs. Santa Claus Herself Takes Charge of Candy Kitchen.

SKETCHES MADE AT SANTA'S HEADQUARTERS.

NOTE TO CHILDREN—The Sentinel has sent a reporter to Kriss Kringle Land, where Santa Claus lives, to get the very latest Christmas news for its little readers. Every day, from now until Christmas, The Sentinel will print one of his dispatches, sent by wireless. These news dispatches are for YOU, and grown-up people have no business reading them UNLESS they read them ALOUD to you. This is the first time that any newspaper has printed the REAL CHRISTMAS NEWS this way.—EDITOR.

Special from Santa, by Wireless.

Kriss Kringle Land, Dec. 19.—All the Santa Claus factories are working, day and night, getting ready for the biggest Christmas since I was elected by the children to hold office for life. So heavy have the orders been coming in from the kiddies that today I had to call in the Brownies to help out. The Brownies are making rag dolls and new mittens for the poor children and little red automobiles and gold chains for the rich children. Dear me! It seems every year we make more and more of the rag dolls and mittens. Times have changed since I was a young man. Why, the millionaire babies are even ordering airships and stocks and bonds in big trusts as presents.

We are all snowed in up here in the Northland The snow must be 10 feet deep over the roof. Early this morning I heard an awful noise out in the stables. I tunneled out through the snow and what do you think! Guess! You give up? The reindeers were fighting. One young reindeer claimed he was a Bull Moose and the old stand-patters took a vote and decided he couldn't help haul the sleigh, as Bull Mooses weren't running fast enough this year.

Mrs. Santa Claus has charge of the kitchen where we are making millions of popcorn balls and candy canes. Last year we were away behind on orders and so, to avoid missing the poor children, I have appointed many representatives in every town to help me distribute the goodies. If they call on you it's all right.

WAIT AND WED AT 30 YEARS OF AGE

"If Hubby Does Not Appear That is Nothing to Cry Over"

SAYS MRS. BELMONT

New York, Dec. 19.—"If women did not marry until they were 30 years old, there would be fewer divorces and more happiness in the land," said Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont when asked if she thought 25 the proper age for a girl to marry.

"Men are not all the fairy princes that young girls think them," she continued. "And girls are by no means the angels men imagine them to be—until they learn better. If both men and women married later they would know themselves and each other far better than they do when they are mere girls and boys.

"When I put the marrying age at 30, I have good reasons for doing so. Woman is not physically fitted for motherhood until after she is at least 25 years old. That is the reason why in so many early marriages the older children are weaklings and the younger ones are stronger. One of the reasons why children of the royal families of Europe are physically inferior is because of the early marriages of their parents.

"I advise girls not to give up their work when they marry. They give up all their independence when they do so and become a weakling dependent without rights or privileges in the household of their husbands."

"But," Mrs. Belmont was asked, "isn't it true that most women who don't marry before they are 30 never marry at all?"

"Well, what of it?" she replied. "Better that than make a foolish marriage that will turn out badly later. Please do not think that I am complaining of our men. I consider American men superior to American women in stability and broadmindedness. It is because I think suffrage will help develop women that I am working for it."

NO BEGGAR BUT HE ASKED SOME REST

Arrested Youth Tells Court Why He Asked for a Bed.

JUDGE HELPS HIM

New York, Dec. 19."You are charged with begging on the streets, young man," said Magistrate O'Connor to a clean-cut, handsome youth who stood before him in night court.

The prisoner said that he was John O'Connor, son of an orange grower in Redlands, Cal., and that he had come to New York three weeks ago believing he could make a living here and be independent.

"I was not begging for money or food," he replied to the magistrate. "I approached this policeman," pointing to Patrolman Fitzgibbon, "at Fortieth street and Broadway and asked him if he could tell me where I could get a bed for the night.

"When I arrived in New York I had $45, a new overcoat and plenty of good clothes. I thought it would be easy to get a job and I went out to see something of the city. I went to the Metropolitan opera house and several theaters. Then my money gave out. I pawned my overcoat. Then I pawned all the clothes I had except the ones I am wearing.

"I found myself without a cent, but I got a job at $16 a week as a shipping clerk. I was to go to work tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, but knew I couldn't make good if I had no sleep and stayed on the streets in the cold weather. That's the reason I approached this policeman."

"I believe you, young man," said the magistrate. "I'm going to have you accommodated here and give instructions that you be let out at 7 o'clock after you have had breakfast. Then you can get to your new job on time."

"THE CLOCK HAS JUST STRUCK TOO"
"I CANNOT GO AWAY FROM HERE" SHE SOBBED "I CANNOT GO"
AND IT WAS EVEN SO, FOR SHE HAD STEPPED UPON HER CHEWING GUM.
"O MARRY ME TWILL BE IMMENSE FOR I HAVE A DOLLAR AND NINETEEN CENTS"
ARE YEZ ALL READY LADS?
THEN HOLD YER GRIPS TILL I CHANGE ME HANDS!
HOW MAC GOT THE MOON OUT OF THE WATER
YE POOR MAN! AIN'T YOU GOT NO FRIENDS?
NO, MAM—NUTHIN' BUT RELATIVES!
OH! THAT'S DIFFERENT!
SAY, THAT GUY OVER O THERE CALLED YOU AN OLD STIFF
LEAD ME TO HIM!
WELL I SHOULD SAY NOT
YOU'RE NOT AN OLD STIFF. ARE YOU!
WHEN THE BIG FELLOW LETS HIM UP I'LL GO AFTER HIM
OH, BUT IT WAS THE BIG FELLOW SAID IT!
HEY! COME BACK! YOU'RE NOT AN OLD STIFF, ARE YOU?
YES I AM! I GOT IT FROM MY FATHER. HE USED TO WORK IN A CORSET FACTORY
LIFE IS UNHAPPY AND DEATH WOULD BE SWEET WHEN MAGGIE GOES SHOPPING WITH CORNS ON HER FEET!

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Dec. 19.—Harriman stocks were weak at the opening of the market, owning to the announcement that representatives of Union Pacific had been unable to agree with the attorney general on a plan of distribution for its holdings of Southern Pacific. The remainder of the list showed sympathetic heaviness. Reading and New York Central lost 1¼, Colorado Fuel 1½ and pressed steel car 1. American Tobacco advanced 1½.

Supporting orders were distributed in the Harriman stocks and they quickly made up their losses. The whole market also turned upward vigorously.

In view of varying influences traders were in some doubt at the outset but when the first rush of selling was over the whole market moved upward steadily and before noon was showing a good proportion of gains. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed strong. Renewed buying in the copper stocks, which carried up American Smelting four points, revived speculation in the general market and there was a recovery to the earlier high levels.

HOLDS POLICE AT BAY EIGHT HOURS

room through holes cut in the wall and flooring.

Police squads besieging the house where Boehler barricaded himself after decapitating his wife last night had been unable to dislodge the fugitive this forenoon. Boehler, who was well supplied with ammunition, had declared he would not be taken alive and the police at first determined to starve him out unless he tried to escape.

Charles Davis, one of the policemen shot by Boehler early today, had his wound dressed and returned to his post. Jesse Wooten, another policeman who was shot through the lungs, may recover. There was no change in the condition of Spaulding Sparks, a drug clerk, shot by mistake by one of the besieging party.

It was said Boehler was a native of Indiana.

Boehler and the police, the latter stationed at half a dozen points of vantage in neighboring buildings, exchanged an intermittent fire throughout the morning, while others of the attacking party succeeded in reaching a floor above that on which the man was barricaded. Holes were bored through the floor and quantities of formaldehyde were poured into the room. When all appeared quiet detectives stormed Boehler's door and in an exchange of shots the man was riddled with bullets. Crowds of spectators witnessed the fight.

GUNMEN FILE APPEAL.

Will Act as Stay of Execution in New York Cases.

New York, Dec. 19.—Notices of appeal in the cases of the four "gunmen," condemned to death for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was filed by their counsel today. This acts as a stay of execution, pending a decision by the higher courts. They were originally sentenced to die during the week of January 6.

part of the skull was broken as if the man had been killed with a hatchet.

Supt. of Police Gorman admitted to newspaper men this afternoon that the man who wrote the letter to Mrs. Dayton had made a complete confession of the murder of Dayton. Gorman however, said the man left Richmond several days ago. In an effort to find and arrest this man who the police say was Joseph F. Snyder, descriptions were sent to the police departemtns in many cities. Snyder is fifty years old, five years older than his alleged victim and before and since the murder he had lived in the Dayton home.

Dayton was a factory employe and had a family of three children. Snyder took up his residence with Dayton in 1910, some time before midsummer and his relations with Dayton were said to have been of the pleasantest kind.

MRS. GUNNESS IN ALBERTA, HE SAYS

Laporte Chief of Police is in Receipt of a Telegram.

OLD CASE IS REVIVED

Laporte, Ind., Dec. 19. Information that Mrs. Belle Gunness, on whose "murder farm" near here in 1908 thirteen bodies were found, is believed to be in Letheridge, Alberta, Canada, was received by Chief of Police Meinke in a telegram sent by Frank Wise. A woman, answering the description of Mrs. Gunness has been under surveillance several hours. The local police were requested to send a man to complete the identification.

The statement of George Meyers, a convict, that Ray Lamphere, who was employed by Mrs. Gunness, had said that the body of a Chicago woman was placed in the Gunness home to create the impression that the owner of the farm was burned to death, has caused a revival of many old theories. A number of telegrams and letters have been received today by the police department. Chief Meinke believes that Mrs. Gunness is alive.

Attorney Worden, who defended Lamphere when he was tried for arson declares he has evidence, which he is guarding, that is more sensational than that given by Meyers.

Meyers says he knows the name of the man who drove Mrs. Gunness in an automobile from her home to Chicago, but refuses to give it to the authorities. Meyers, who was out on parole, has been returned to prison.

LAW CAN'T PUNISH ERRING HUSBAND

He Has Just Served Six Months and Is Immune for Six More.

FAMILY IS STARVING

New York, Dec. 19.—There came to the Gates avenue court, Brooklyn, a pale, sunken cheeked woman, dressed in threadbare garments. To her skirts clung five small children, all as wan and underfed as their mother.

The woman asked Magistrate Harris if it were possible to compel her husband, Jacob Boll, to support her and the little ones.

"It certainly is," said the magistrate. "Why do you ask such a question?"

"Because I have been to many of the Brooklyn courts and all the judges have told me I could not expect any help from my husband and that he couldn't be punished for the next six months at least."

The woman said she was Mrs. Lena Boll of 127 Knickerbocker avenue, and that the children were Lena, 12; Jacob, 11; Catherine, 10; Charles, 7, and Harry, 3.

"My husband and the father of these children deserted us a year ago," she continued. "I had him arrested for desertion and he was sent to prison for six months. Recently he got out and then he said:

"'Starve, for all I care,' and he let us starve.

"I have been working at home for sweatshops from 7 in the morning until midnight, but I can't make more than seventy-five cents a day. Now my health is about gone. We don't get much to eat and the children are too young to help me."

"Where does your husband live?" asked the magistrate.

"With his parents at 92 Cedar street. I have appealed to him, but he will do nothing. Also I have appealed to the Charities association and was told that nothing could be done to my husband for the next six months but that they could take my children from me. I want to keep my children. Can nothing be done at once to make their father assist me?"

"I'm afraid not," answered Magistrate Harris. "He is immune for the present. Nothing can be done at this time. And yet this is Christmas," he said, as the mother and her forlorn looking children went away.

Police of Gary Hobart and Miller are working on what they believe is another case of murder, which has come to light by the discovery of the body of a man about 30 years old in the sand dunes east of Miller. The body was found by Gustave Kimmel of Willow Creek, a section foreman, who was burning grass on railroad property. When the ground was cleared the body was revealed. Although the victim had been dead three months employes of the sand company say that the body was placed on the spot where it was found the past week.

INDIANA'S PLUMS GUARDED.

Senator Martine Will Watch Over Shively and Kern Interests.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Senator James E. Martine of New Jersey, Woodrow Wilson's closest friend in congress, yesterday announced that he will personally see that as long as Senators Shively and Kern are away from the senate there shall be no action taken on any Indiana nomination pending before the senate for confirmation.

"Since the Indiana senators can not be here," said he, "I shall see personally that nothing is done in their absence."
